High Court Decision Hits Private Citizens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has turned a long-obsolete civil rights law into a far-reaching ban on racial discrimination in the sale and rental of housing.

Beyond that, the 7-2 decision Monday hinted that the 13th Amendment banning slavery gave Congress the power to strike at private acts of discrimination generally, if it wants to use the power.

The ruling, one of several summers dealt out at terms end, said housing discrimination—private or officially sanctioned—is a “relic of slavery” that was outlawed in 1866.

The Reconstruction law, an outgrowth of the 13th Amendment, “bars all racial discrimination, private as well as public, in the sale or rental of property,” Justice Potter Stewart declared.

His majority opinion, opposed only by two justices, goes far beyond the 1967 civil rights law signed by President Johnson in April. This year’s law exempted many small residential units and would not have a major impact until next year.

The court’s ruling spoke of no exceptions. And while the 1866 law has no specific federal enforcement machinery, Stewart’s opinion means Negroes can go to court now to assert their rights.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and Associate Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., Abe Fortas and Thurgood Marshall comprised the majority with Stewart.

Justices John M. Harlan and Byron R. White dissented, saying the finding that the old law applies to purely private actions “is almost surely wrong and at the least is open to serious doubt.”

Because the court prefers to announce its holdings in bunches instead of spacing them out, the housing decision overshadowed other big rulings.

Among them were:

1. Sanction for police to keep jailing chronic drunks found on the city streets.
2. A ban on denying welfare to needy children solely because of their mothers sex conduct.
3. Freedom for community antenna television operators to pick up copyrighted movies and cartoons from TV stations without having to pay for them.

French Strikers OK Settlements, Return to Work

PARIS (AP) — Thousands more French strikers headed back to work today, led by the 65,000 workers at Renault auto plants who voted overwhelmingly to accept a settlement worked out by their union leaders.

The return of the Renault strikers plus 10,000 at the Savem truck plant in Lyon and about 30,000 shipyard workers at St. Nazaire, Bordeaux and La Seyne left less than 250,000 of the 10-million strikers still out, according to union estimates.

The major holdouts were the personnel of the government radio and television network. Those strikers on Monday rejected new proposals by Information Minister Yves Guena.

The central issue was the strikers demand for a government pledge to seek parliamentary action insuring freedom of the network’s news programs from government control.

Guena offered only to set up a “commission of notables” to work out new legislation.

The radio-TV strike has reduced media for the National Assembly elections to a few news bulletins and brief TV appearances by party leaders.

Premier Georges Pompidou was to defend the government’s record in a broadcast to the nation tonight. It may be his last before the first-round balloting Sunday.

Lindsay Rips U.S. Policy On Vietnam

CLEVELAND (AP)—The future of American democracy will not be decided “in the jungles of a country on the other side of the world,” New York Mayor John V. Lindsay said Monday in assailing U. S. policy in Vietnam.

“I think the fate of America depends upon whether we can make democracy work in the streets of our own cities,” he told the City Club Forum.

The mayor said the channeling of U. S. energies into the Vietnam war is to blame for the continuing violence that has wracked American cities.

He said that in the three years since the riots in the Watts section of Los Angeles, the United States has increased its military

Ray Hearing Set June 27 In London

Expect Accused Slayer of King To Fight Return

LONDON (AP) — A British magistrate today scheduled a hearing on June 27 on the U.S. government’s application to return James Earl Ray to Tennessee for trial on a charge of murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Ray’s British attorney, Roger Frisby, indicated in Bow Street Magistrate’s Court that the 40-year-old escaped convict would fight extradition. The lawyer asked Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Frank Milton for as much time as possible to prepare his case.

Milton said he wanted to hold the hearing as soon as possible, and they compromised on Thursday of next week.

British extradition hearings usually last a day or two, and the magistrate generally gives his decision as soon as he hears all the evidence.

Ray was brought to Bow Street today for the second time since his arrest 10 days ago. The magistrate ordered him returned to Wandsworth Prison.

Two attorneys from Birmingham, Ala., Arthur J. Hanes and his son, Arthur Jr., are expected in London Wednesday to assist Ray’s British attorney.

Ray was arrested at London airport June 8 and charged then with entering the country on a forged Canadian passport and carrying an unlicensed loaded gun.

After a preliminary hearing before Milton June 10 on the passport and gun charges, he (Continued on Page 8)

Thunderstorms dumped rain into the midwest today after raking the northern and central Plains with hail and violent winds.

Showers also dampened the northeast from New York into New England and portions of the Gulf states as well.

The brunt of Monday night’s weather violence hit south-central Nebraska. Tornadoes touched down briefly east of North Platte and east and southwest of Grand Island. Damage was minimal and no injuries were reported.

Turbulent weather also hit adjacent sections of Kansas and extended northward into the Dakotas.

Rainfall outside the midcontinent generally was light, although more than 1½ inches fell on Cotulla, in southern Texas, during three hours Monday evening.

Below-normal chilliness covered much of the Great Lakes Region and parts of the Northeast before dawn. The mercury settled to 40 degrees at Pellston, in northern Lower Michigan.

The five-star general was stricken around 9 p.m. EDT Saturday at Walter Reed Army Hospital with what his doctors termed “another major heart attack”—the latest of five cardiac assaults, both major and minor, he has suffered since September 1955.

U.S. Soldier Tried In Korean’s Death

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The trial of Spec. 4 Norman C. Reiter, 25, of Toledo, Ohio, on a charge of manslaughter began Monday in Seoul District Court.

Reiter, assigned to the 7th Military Police Co., 7th U. S. Infantry Division, is charged with negligently causing the death of a Korean man. He is alleged to have hit the Korean in Tongduchon, 20 miles north of Seoul March 2, while driving his vehicle under the influence of alcohol.

Reiter was among 10 council members counted upon to vote for a Big Three resolution welcoming the guarantee from the three nuclear powers. The 10-0 vote expected Wednesday, would be one more than needed to pass the resolution. The other five council members—France, Brazil, Algeria, India and Pakistan—were expected to abstain.

Denny Williams Named Top Grid Coach at Circleville

The Circleville Board of Education at noon today employed Denny Williams, 35, Follansbee, W. Va., as head football coach of the fighting Tigers and assistant track coach.

DENNY WILLIAMS

Williams was head coach at Follansbee High School, his alma mater, where he was posted a 34-21-4 record in the past six years.

Prior to that, he served as an assistant mentor at Toronto, O. High School from 1958 to 1962.

Williams’ basic philosophy of football is “to win.” He told The Herald today that he would try to adapt his style of football to the type of boys he had playing.

“If we have good receivers and passers, we will go to an open game. But there is nothing worse than watching a team try to pass when it doesn’t have the personnel,” he said.

Williams plans to move to Circleville by the middle of July.

Married, he and his wife, Florine, are the parents of three children, Susan, 12; Denny, 9; Timothy, 4.

They are members of the Church of Christ. His only hobby is fishing.

Dolly Dull, Fiddler Unstrung As Actors Equity Walks Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Dolly didn’t say hello, and Fiddler didn’t fiddle as a strike by Actors Equity closed 19 Broadway shows.

Curtain time Monday night found only a slow procession of pickets under the darkened marquees at such hits as “Cabaret,” “George M!,” “Hair,” “Hello, Dolly!” and “Fiddler on the Roof.”

The strike also closed nine road shows in cities from Wilmington, Del., to San Francisco. But it did not affect off Broadway productions.

The walkout was called by Actors Equity after it failed to reach agreement with Broadway producers on wages and other items to replace the contract that expired two weeks ago.

Producer David Merrick, who announced the death of two of his shows after the strike began, said after a City Hall meeting:

The pickets who strolled the theater-lined streets of Times Square carried signs reading, “Actors on strike—no show until we get a contract.” They distributed “fact sheets” to passersby.

The strike brought the first Broadway blackout since 1960 when Equity struck for nine days over pensions. Actor Ralph Bellamy headed the union during that walkout in which only 19 of 22 productions survived to reopen.

Equity seeks to have the $130-a-week minimum increased to $200, a shorter contract, retention of choruses for the full run of shows, premium pay for road shows and control over appearances of alien actors, chiefly British, on the New York stage.

Ron J. Meyer, 16, Hamilton, a Federalist, was elected House speaker and James D. Rosenberger, 17, Canal Fulton, was chosen speaker pro-tem.

John D. Nutte of Canton was named secretary of state by Boys State Gov. Gregory R. Huth of Seven Hills.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court last month ordered Wallis retried after an alleged confession was ruled inadmissible.

The surrender in Gia Dinh came in response to loudspeaker broadcasts by South Vietnamese marines who had surrounded the holdouts near a pagoda three miles north of South Vietnam’s presidential palace.

The soldiers came out in groups over a period of about an hour. Most were North Vietnamese, most carried weapons and most were wounded.

The new governor of Saigon, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, said he expected new Viet Cong infantry attacks on the capital soon but doubted the enemy would carry out the 100-round-a-day rocket shelling it had threatened would start this week.

McCarthy Tells HHH: Make Policy Doubts Public

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy — wrapping up his New York primary campaign—says Democratic presidential rival Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey should make public any private doubts on the Vietnam war.

“I think everyone has private doubt,” McCarthy said at a Harlem rally Monday. “There comes a time when the private doubts of a public man must become public doubts.”

He referred to a prediction by former White House press secretary Bill Moyers that Humphrey soon will begin spelling out his differences with Johnson administration policies including escalation of the war.

But a Humphrey spokesman said in Washington “the vice president does not follow the practice of thinking one thing in private and saying another thing in public.”

“He intends to discuss all the issues that are vital to this country just as he has been discussing such issues throughout his public life,” the spokesman said.

On the Republican side, Richard M. Nixon called on President Johnson to stop “dragging his feet” and sign the anticrime bill. And New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller took his hunt for delegates to Capitol Hill in Washington.

McCarthy was the only major presidential candidate to campaign on behalf of delegate states in final days before the New York primary today which will name 123 Democratic and 82 Republican delegates.

McCarthy delegate candidates are running in 37 of the 41 congressional districts. Humphrey slates are entered in 25.

Most delegates pledged to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy before he was assassinated say they hope to be elected as supporters of his principles—and uncommitted to any other candidate.

Kennedy had been expected to take the lion’s share of a delegates and few observers were predicting today’s results.

Rockefeller candidates are opposed by Nixon supporters for only 11 of the 82 GOP delegate seats at stake.

Adam Clayton Powell, denied seating in the U.S. House of Representatives last year, was favored to win a nomination for re-election.

Three Democrats seek the U.S. Senate nomination to oppose Republican incumbent Sen. Jacob K. Javits. They are Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick; Eugene H. Nickerson, a Kennedy man, and former New York Councilman Paul O’Dwyer.

While New Yorkers voted in the primary, Rockefeller was on Capitol Hill seeking delegates and hoping to convince Republicans up for re-election that he would help them more as the party’s presidential candidate than would Nixon.

Some 50 GOP representatives and 21 senators will be delegates, and five senators head their state delegations as favorite candidates.

Nixon, in urging Johnson to sign the anticrime bill, said in a statement it is clear Congress is ready to debate a more stringent gun control law, but in the meantime the President should sign the bill which Nixon said “has 90 per cent” of the gun control features Johnson asked.

Third party presidential candidate George Wallace, campaigning in Richmond, Va., urged a new slogan—“Southern Power”—saying the South has started a movement “which is going to change the trends in this country.”

Meanwhile, strong criticism was heard against the police occupation Sunday of the Sorbonne, the main building of the University of Paris and the symbol of the student revolt. Eisenhower Holds Own With Illness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, 77, fighting anew against a major heart attack—and apparently holding his own so far—today passed at least the halfway mark in the three-to-four days doctors consider the most critical.

The five-star general was stricken around 9 p.m. EDT Saturday at Walter Reed Army Hospital with what his doctors termed “another major heart attack”—the latest of five cardiac assaults, both major and minor, he has suffered since September 1955.

And it occurred while he was walking about in his ward, apparently on the road to complete recovery from a “mild” heart attack he suffered less than two months ago while vacationing in California.

The latest word on his condition came around 10 a.m. EDT Monday when his doctors said in answer to a series of written questions submitted by The Associated Press that:

“The early period following any heart attack is the most critical. The general’s response so far has been favorable.”

Dolly Dull, Fiddler Unstrung As Actors Equity Walks Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Dolly didn’t say hello and Fiddler didn’t fiddle as a strike by Actors Equity closed 19 Broadway shows.

Curtain time Monday night found only a slow procession of pickets under the darkened marquees at such hits as “Cabaret,” “George M!,” “Hair,” “Hello, Dolly!” and “Fiddler on the Roof.”

The strike also closed nine road shows in cities from Wilmington, Del., to San Francisco. But it did not affect off Broadway productions.

The walkout was called by Actors Equity after it failed to reach agreement with Broadway producers on wages and other items to replace the contract that expired two weeks ago.

Producer David Merrick, who announced the death of two of his shows after the strike began, said after a City Hall meeting:

The pickets who strolled the theater-lined streets off Times Square carried signs reading, “Actors on strike—no show until we get a contract.” They distributed “fact sheets” to passersby.

The strike brought the first Broadway blackout since 1960 when Equity struck for nine days over pensions. Actor Ralph Bellamy headed the union during that walkout in which only 19 of 22 productions survived to reopen.

Equity seeks to have the $130-a-week minimum increased to $200, a shorter contract, retention of choruses for the full run of shows, premium pay for road shows and control over appearances of alien actors, chiefly British, on the New York stage.

Yakubovsky Heads Red Units

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Soviet Marshal Ivan I. Yakubovsky, commander of the Warsaw Pact forces, arrived in Czechoslovakia today to direct maneuvers involving military personnel of five Communist bloc nations.

The Soviet commander sought to forestall rumors that the maneuvers may be aimed at overturning the liberal program of Czechoslovakia’s new regime.

He told the Prague newspaper Rude Pravo that large numbers of troops were not taking part in the exercises beginning sometime this week. They involve only “commanders and staffs of all arms of the services” of Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union, Hungary, Poland and East Germany, he said.

The new governor of Saigon, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, said he expected new Viet Cong infantry attacks on the capital soon but doubted the enemy would carry out the 100-round-a-day rocket shelling it had threatened would start this week.

Lower Voting Age: Rhodes

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes was a big hit at Buckeye Boys State Monday night when he told the youthful citizens he would introduce a bill in the legislature to lower the voting age in Ohio.

Rhodes was wildly cheered and received a standing ovation.

“I believe in all sincerity if the 11 million people of Ohio could see the effort and enthusiasm and understanding of government they too would want you to vote and play a most important role in the great state of Ohio,” Rhodes said.

The governor did not mention any specific age. The present voting age is 21.

Earlier Monday, Boys State Senate elected Nationalist Walter M. Cummings, 16, Columbus as president pro-tem, and chose Federalist John M. Russell, 16, Cuyahoga Falls, as minority leader.

Ron J. Meyer, 16, Hamilton, a Federalist, was elected House speaker and James D. Rosenberger, 17, Canal Fulton, was chosen speaker pro-tem.

John D. Nutte of Canton was named secretary of state by Boys State Gov. Gregory R. Huth of Seven Hills.

Big 3 Pledge Aid to Nations Without A-Bombs

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union, the United States and Britain were on record today with pledges to rally the U.N. Security Council against any nuclear threat to a nation that has renounced nuclear weapons.

Canada, Denmark, Paraguay, Hungary and Senegal were expected to react favorably to the pledges of aid to nonnuclear countries which sign the treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons.

They were among 10 council members counted upon to vote for a Big Three resolution welcoming the guarantee from the three nuclear powers. The 10-0 vote expected Wednesday, would be one more than needed to pass the resolution. The other five council members—France, Brazil, Algeria, India and Pakistan—were expected to abstain.

Sewer Rats Get Disposal Benefits

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A public health official said Monday that home garbage disposals give sewer rats a plentiful food supply.

Dr. James M. Clinton of the U.S. Public Health Service National Communicable Disease Center said most of the nation’s estimated 90-million rats are in urban areas and use sewers like subways. Thus, disposals are giving rats “a plentiful, well balanced food supply,” he told a rat control seminar.

Judge Frees 1949 Slayer

EASTON, Pa. (AP) — A man who served 18 years of a life sentence for murder was free today after a judge directed a verdict of acquittal in a retrial.

John Wallis shook his lawyer’s hand after being freed Monday, but otherwise showed no emotion. He said he planned to try to get a job in the Easton area in eastern Pennsylvania.

Wallis, convicted May 8, 1950, was sentenced to life in the 1949 strangulation of Mrs. Bertha Reppert in her Northampton house.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court last month ordered Wallis retried after an alleged confession was ruled inadmissible.

Judge Clinton Budd Palmer, after hearing arguments by lawyers for both sides, told the jury to return a verdict of innocent.

“On the basis of all evidence introduced in this case, there has not been enough evidence to sustain a case of second-degree murder,” Palmer said.

Five Points News

There were 60 present at the Five Points Methodist Sunday School Sunday morning. Worship services followed. Richard Redman lead the service while our pastor was attending Annual Conference. The Bible School closed Friday with a lovely program at the church on Friday evening.

The Monroe Township Advisory Council No. 10 held their June Meeting Wednesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stubbs. The chairman Elbee Jones opened the meeting and heard the various reports. Miss Laura Long, secretary, read the report of the last meeting. Dale Stubbs, discussion leader, presented the topic, "Policy Suggestions for 1969" which was read and discussed. Mrs. Francis Furniss read, "The Good Old Days" by Perle Whitehead which proved very interesting and amusing. At the close of the meeting seasonal refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Elbee Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss, Miss Laura Long, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Dennis and Mr. Howard Tallman. The July meeting will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis.

Schottensteins Halts Arms Sales

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A second Columbus chain store, Schottensteins, announced Tuesday it is halting the sale of firearms at its establishments here, "in the interest of public safety."

Earlier, the J-Mart donated some $20,000 in pistols and ammunition to police and stopped the sale of these items.

A spokesman for Schottensteins said that rifles and shotguns will be advertised and sold 30 days prior to and through the hunting season.

with a perfect 10 - 0 league. Wintersville was also undefeated in the league.

Last year, 23 football players Williams had coached in high school were playing college football.

AMONG the stars he has coached is Tim Anderson, a defensive standout on the Ohio State University Freshman football team last fall, and a griddler who is slated to see plenty of action as a sophomore this fall.

Bob Sebeck, a three year letterman at Purdue, was also a Follansbee grad and played under Williams. There were two Follansbee grads playing at Big 10 schools last year, two at Marshall University of the Mid American Conference, one at West Virginia University, one at Fairmont State College, the NAIA champion last year, and 16 at West Liberty.

Williams teaching assignment at Circleville will be elementary physical education and driver's training.

He will replace Paul (Hoss) Starr, popular grid mentor who resigned May 23 to accept the head football coaching position at Newark High School.

Starr coached the Tigers to three South Central Ohio League grid titles in five years, posting a 41-8 overall record.

Williams will have basically the same staff of assistants that Starr had.

JIM Lint, the veteran end and tackle coach of the Tigers, returns as does backfield coach Dick Fisher, the "old man" of the staff.

Brent Beil has been moved up to the varsity as guard and center coach to replace Kent Carpenter who is moving to Newark along with Starr.

Danny Fouts will be the Circleville freshman football coach while there is still a vacancy for the position of head junior high football mentor.

British Heart Patient Dies; Only 5 Left

LONDON (AP) — British heart transplant patient Frederick West died Monday night, reducing the number of surviving transplant recipients to five.

Doctors said West's death was caused by an "overwhelming infection." The end came 45 days after the 45-year-old building contractor received the heart of an Irish laborer.

West was up and walking around three days after receiving the new heart on May 3. Then he developed kidney and chest infections. He had been given drugs to suppress the body's natural tendency to reject the foreign heart and these reduced his ability to fight the infections, medical sources said.

West was the world's 16th heart transplant patient to die. So far 21 human heart transplants have been performed—12 of them in the United States.

South Africa's Philip Blai-berg, the world's longest surviving transplant patient, is improving steadily after being stricken with hepatitis at Groote Schuur Hospital, Cape Town.

The conditions of Everett C. Thomas, 47, and Louis John Fierro, 54, the two surviving U.S. transplant patients in Houston, Tex., were described as "stable." Thomas was operated on May 3 and Fierro received his heart May 21.

New York Boy Records Italy

Carrying his GE portable tape recorder, young Mike goes in search of sounds as well as sights in picturesque Venice.

NEW YORK—Mike Dagnault, age 10, and his mother recently went abroad for a three-week holiday in Europe. It was Mike's first trip abroad. Naturally, he was very excited.

To help him capture the flavor of the experience, he took along two very important items: a camera and a portable tape recorder.

The camera, of course, is very common tourist baggage. A tape recorder is a relatively new idea—something more and more tourists of all ages are discovering adds a second dimension to travel memories.

We all know what tourists do with cameras. With tape recorders they create something equally important: sound snapshots.

What's a sound snapshot? It's a sound impression of a place—a quick snatch of the existing atmosphere. Sound snapshots are perfect accompaniments to pictures, or they can stand alone.

Tape recorders on trips are also handy for keeping daily diaries, for recording tour lectures, and for dictating letters to friends and family back home. (Tapes come in handy mailing cartons — can be dropped in any postal box, anywhere in the world.)

Mike Dagnault spent a fun-filled, sound-filled week in Italy seeing Milan, Venice and Rome. He then cruised the Greek Isles, and on the way back, the family stopped off in Paris.

Once home in New York, Mike had a collection of unique memories: sound snapshots of the bells at San Marco, tapes of Italian cafe singers, the full text of some of the lectures on his tour boat of the Greek Isles.

All of these things were fun to play for friends, perfect for school discussions, and above all, wonderful reminders of that first trip to Europe.

Pentagon Seeks Protective Shelters for Vietnam Jets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has ordered urgent reconstruction of shelters for its aircraft in South Vietnam to protect against intensified Viet Cong rocket and mortar attacks.

"Recent attacks on Air Force bases in Vietnam have demonstrated the need for better protection of aircraft" than the current roofless shelters now in use, the Air Force said Monday in response to questions.

At present, the aircraft, most costing at least $1 million each, are parked on bases in South Vietnam in roofless revetments made from earth-filled steel walls five feet wide and 12 feet high.

The first steps taken to carry out the program are now under way in the form of tests to determine the best material to use in building roofs for the current shelters. When the tests are finished in the near future, construction will start.

Because the enemy hasn't made air raids against the bases these shelters were thought adequate, at least until the Tet offensive early this year showed them vulnerable to rocket and mortar fire.

When the damage from the offensive was tallied, it was found that 192 aircraft were either destroyed or badly damaged from the bombardment.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told a Senate committee earlier this year that more than $132 million in U.S. aircraft had been destroyed or damaged on the ground in Vietnam.

Secretary of the Air Force Harold Brown has urged Congress to appropriate money for an extensive aircraft shelter program at all overseas bases where the United States has positioned much of its tactical air power.

The Pentagon is asking for $17.4 million for the over-all aircraft shelter effort, on top of about $8.5 million voted last year.

If the Brachiosaurus dinosaur were alive today, it could look over the top of a three-story building. This huge reptile probably weighed 50 tons.

The Mysterious Inussuks Puzzling Stone Figures of the North

By STEVE LIBBY

Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper
HUNDREDS of miles north of the Arctic Circle, in the vicinity of Ellesmere Island and Viscount Melville Sound in Canada's Northwest Territories, stand some of nature's greatest mysteries.

These great stone monuments which appear, even close-up, in the form of man, were built — as far as can be reasonably established — by the Tunrits, Eskimos from circa 800 B.C. to 1300 A.D., and quite possibly even earlier.

Dr. W. E. Taylor, chief archaeologist of the National Museum of Canada, says the strange architectural structures go back as far as 2500 B.C.

NO ONE really knows their purpose, or precisely how they came to be built in this treeless and barren land, but their age is probably the age of man in the Arctic.

The Eskimos say these Inussuks originated with the Tunrit people, who prepared the land, built the cairns and the fish weirs and who, with the aid of the Inussuks, compelled the caribou to follow certain paths so that they might be killed.

The cairns are still called Inussuks, a word meaning "like a person" — and at a distance, that is how they appear: like forelorn silhouetted figures on a lonely horizon, standing in a vast and treeless land as monuments to people and a way of life which has disappeared with the centuries.

INUSSUKS, according to Arctic expert and writer E. H. Mitchell, were probably created to serve several purposes. They were landmarks, visible from afar, to identify a particular place from another.

They also gave travellers bearings on coming in from the frozen sea to a flat, featureless and desolate coast. And, Mitchell believes, later Inussuks were constructed to mark their farthest penetration into the region or even to mark places where their records lay buried.

Beyond those assumptions,

Standing silent guard over the barrens of Keewatin, in Canada's Northwest Territories, is an Inussuk. It's an Eskimo word meaning "like a man." It is certainly well named.

little is known about the Inussuks. It is believed they were employed in hunting, their manlike appearance built in long pillars rows and placed in such a way as to lead or drive caribou herds to a place of ambush.

As if to verify this theory, Inussuks are usually found at crossing places near lakes, where it is assumed—women followed at the rear of the caribou herd, men and boys ran in and out between the Inussuks (making a small number look large to a panicking caribou herd). Once driven into the water, the caribou were speared from kayaks.

SOMETIMES two converging rows of Inussuks were used, and the caribou driven between them. At the apex archers crouched behind stone blinds, and sent their arrows into the flanks of the running animals.

The lives of these people, perhaps 4,000 years ago, depending on this method of hunting, elaborate maneuvers followed elaborate preparation for the hunt, and much care had to be expended to see to it that no taboo was broken and that no spirit was offended during the execution of the plan.

THE CROSSING places were, indeed, holy places, and religious patterns changed in every area. No woman was allowed to cross the paths, nor to assist in the actual killing. In the eyes of the spirits, the ancient Eskimos believed a woman was unworthy and unclean and would certainly offend the soul of a dead caribou.

The Tunrits were also the architects of another, more massive form of rock monument called the Etigaseemaite — "that which is raised from the ground." These boulders, approaching the mysterious Stonehenge of Britain in their consequence and perhaps surpassing them in mystery, sometimes weighed many tons.

Carefully balanced and set on small rocks and paying tribute to their architects through millenniums, they stand perched in the Melville Peninsula valleys reminiscent of mighty altars — which, perhaps, they were intended to be.

NORAD Canadian Election Issue

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian-U.S. agreement to combine forces for the air defense of North America was born in political strife 10 years ago and the issue has cropped up again in the campaign for next Tuesday's national election.

T.C. Douglas, leader of the small New Democratic party, says the North American Air Defense Command—NORAD—is an obsolete concept and that Canada could find better uses for the $140 million it spent this way last year.

Robert Stanfield, the Conservative leader, says his party agrees that Canada should share in North American defense. He has shied away from expressing direct opinions on renewal of the agreement, due in five years.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau has also touched on NORAD, saying Canada should emphasize a continental defense role rather than participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization bloc.

His statement seemed to discount any Canadian initiative on NORAD if he remains in power. But the history of NORAD indicates that it won't be kept out of politics for long.

Canada joined it at a time when most Canadians agreed that Canada couldn't defend itself alone. Canada had already worked closely with the United States in setting up radar warning networks.

The Conservatives, then in power under Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker, announced Aug. 1, 1957 that agreement had been reached with the United States to mesh air defenses.

Diefenbaker ran into controversy when he sought ratification by Parliament and he finally called for a new election to give him a mandate for his program.

Opponents said the effect was to put Canada's air force under control of a foreign power. Lester B. Pearson, then opposition leader and later prime minister, said the agreement had been negotiated in a "slap happy, casual way" and that Parliament had not been consulted.

But Diefenbaker got a big majority in the election and won Commons agreement to the pact on a 200-8 vote June 19, 1958.

The government ordered the American Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, designed to carry nuclear warheads. That brought an outcry from groups opposed to introduction of nuclear weapons to Canada and prompted heated debates in the Commons.

The Diefenbaker government split on the nuclear question and the warheads became an issue in the 1963 election. Pearson's Liberals emerged with enough seats to form a government and went ahead with nuclear tips for the Bomarc.

There has been criticism that the NORAD system was set up to warn of approaching bombers and that the chance of jet-bomber attack is small because of the large missile arsenals built up by the United States and the Soviet Union. But NORAD's supporters say it is the only warning system against missiles and that a bomber attack is still possible.

One of the last acts of the Pearson government was five-year renewal of the NORAD agreement last April. Either government can call for review of the agreement's terms at any time and it may be terminated by either country on a year's notice.

Girls State Has Elections

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 1,247 citizens of Buckeye Girls State went to the polls today—twice.

Primary elections were scheduled for this morning, general elections for this afternoon as the high school girls chose their leaders for the week-long school in self-government.

The Nationalist party had two girls bidding for the governor's nomination — Coleen McMahon, 16, of Columbus and Patricia Wyche, 17, of East Liverpool.

Four girls sought the top nomination from the Federalist party — Judy Jones, 16, West Alexandria; Kristi Cross, 17, New Holland; Carolyn White, 17, Cleveland, and Janet Matovich, 17, Newton Falls.

CALGARY, Alta. (AP) — For the first time in years the Liberal party seems to be gaining support in western Canada. That may be good news for Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in next Tuesday's national election.

Some political experts are predicting that Trudeau's Liberals can double the 10 parliamentary seats they now hold in the prairie provinces and British Columbia. This could make the difference in party efforts to attain a clear majority in the 264-member House of Commons and end the minority rule which has hampered both Conservatives and Liberal administrations since 1962.

The outlook is good, observers say, for the Liberals to pick up three of the 13 seats Saskatchewan will have under a redistribution of seats. They had none of 17 Saskatchewan seats in the last Parliament.

Their biggest gains in the west, however, are expected in Alberta where they are running strong in five or six districts. Their only Alberta seat in the last Parliament was held by a man who had been elected in 1965 as a member of the Social Credit party, but switched to the Liberals.

They are not expected to gain any in Manitoba and probably will lose the one they won in 1965. In British Columbia, they are encouraged by the turnouts drawn by Trudeau during his campaign swing and they hope to pick up two or three in addition to holding the seven they won in 1965.

The voting shifts in the west are attributed to several factors:

—The redrawing of district lines which gave more weight to urban areas where the Liberals are stronger.

—General prosperity in the west.

—The personal popularity of Trudeau and his stand against giving French-speaking Quebec a special status.

—The collapse of the Social Credit party as a national party. Alberta, birthplace of the party, has fielded Social Credit candidates in only three districts and they are all in trouble. The Social Credit party also is expected to draw a blank in British Columbia. The Conservatives are expected to benefit most from this shift.

—The split between former Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker and the present Conservative leader, Robert Stanfield. Diefenbaker is running for re-election from his home district in Saskatchewan, but has shown no desire to speak for the party elsewhere.

NORAD Canadian Election Issue

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian-U.S. agreement to combine forces for the air defense of North America was born in political strife 10 years ago and the issue has cropped up again in the campaign for next Tuesday's national election.

T.C. Douglas, leader of the small New Democratic party, says the North American Air Defense Command—NORAD—is an obsolete concept and that Canada could find better uses for the $140 million it spent this way last year.

Robert Stanfield, the Conservative leader, says his party agrees that Canada should share in North American defense. He has shied away from expressing direct opinions on renewal of the agreement, due in five years.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau has also touched on NORAD, saying Canada should emphasize a continental defense role rather than participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization bloc.

His statement seemed to discount any Canadian initiative on NORAD if he remains in power. But the history of NORAD indicates that it won't be kept out of politics for long.

Canada joined it at a time when most Canadians agreed that Canada couldn't defend itself alone. Canada had already worked closely with the United States in setting up radar warning networks.

The Conservatives, then in power under Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker, announced Aug. 1, 1957 that agreement had been reached with the United States to mesh air defenses.

Diefenbaker ran into controversy when he sought ratification by Parliament and he finally called for a new election to give him a mandate for his program.

Opponents said the effect was to put Canada's air force under control of a foreign power. Lester B. Pearson, then opposition leader and later prime minister, said the agreement had been negotiated in a "slap happy, casual way" and that Parliament had not been consulted.

But Diefenbaker got a big majority in the election and won Commons agreement to the pact on a 200-8 vote June 19, 1958.

The government ordered the American Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, designed to carry nuclear warheads. That brought an outcry from groups opposed to introduction of nuclear weapons to Canada and prompted heated debates in the Commons.

The Diefenbaker government split on the nuclear question and the warheads became an issue in the 1963 election. Pearson's Liberals emerged with enough seats to form a government and went ahead with nuclear tips for the Bomarc.

There has been criticism that the NORAD system was set up to warn of approaching bombers and that the chance of jet-bomber attack is small because of the large missile arsenals built up by the United States and the Soviet Union. But NORAD's supporters say it is the only warning system against missiles and that a bomber attack is still possible.

One of the last acts of the Pearson government was five-year renewal of the NORAD agreement last April. Either government can call for review of the agreement's terms at any time and it may be terminated by either country on a year's notice.

Girls State Has Elections

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 1,247 citizens of Buckeye Girls State went to the polls today—twice.

Primary elections were scheduled for this morning, general elections for this afternoon as the high school girls chose their leaders for the week-long school in self-government.

The Nationalist party had two girls bidding for the governor's nomination — Coleen McMahon, 16, of Columbus and Patricia Wyche, 17, of East Liverpool.

Four girls sought the top nomination from the Federalist party — Judy Jones, 16, West Alexandria; Kristi Cross, 17, New Holland; Carolyn White, 17, Cleveland, and Janet Manovich, 17, Newton Falls.

Avoiding Air Collisions

Flying a light plane gets more expensive and more complicated every day, and many pilots oppose any new mandatory equipment.

But a device described to the aeronautical engineers at the Society of Automotive Engineers business aircraft meeting ought to be considered carefully — it could save hundreds of lives.

The device, a collision avoidance system, would protect large airliners from colliding in the air with light planes, a hazard that will grow with increasing airport traffic.

There is no positive proof that the gadget will do what its developers claim, but prospects are promising, and if the unit price can be kept near the $100 and $300 quoted, it will be a good thing indeed.

It requires installation of a special transmitter in the large commercial aircraft, which sends out a signal that is received by a small diode target in the light craft. The small plane returns a different signal to the liner, indicating direction, range and rate of approach, time until a theoretical collision, altitude and bearing.

There would be no protection for small planes among themselves, but the airliners, which now often transport nearly 100 persons and someday will carry as many as 400, would have some protection.

Cost to the commercial planes would be greater, and would be in addition to an even more expensive "time-frequency" anti-collision system expected to be operational in a few years. But the added expense can be justified by the fact that lighter craft constitute at least 97 per cent of planes in the air.

To be effective, the devices would have to be required, at least on radio equipped planes.

Some flying farmers and small-town pilots do not have radios, but neither do they usually land at congested city airports where most of the danger lies.

More than 500 persons have died in midair collisions in the U.S. between airliners in the last 20 years, and 113 have died in collisions between airliners and small craft in the last year.

It is apparent that something must be done about this problem. The Dinode collision avoidance system appears to be one method worth pursuing.

Vice Presidents

Candidates for vice president have been attracting little attention in this campaign. In fact, no one except the incumbent is willing to admit that he is a candidate for vice president.

Political conventions usually select vice presidential candidates on the basis of geographical location, their standing with large voting groups or other reasons of expediency, rather than because of their qualifications to be President in case that official died or was removed from office.

Yet for a fifth of the nation's history the vice president, because of death of the chief executive, served as President.

The Kennedy Killings

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

When something like the Kennedy tragedy happens, and people respond by accusing themselves and their fellow citizens of complicity in some strange and undefined collective guilt, it leaves you with a rather hopeless feeling. You don't want to dissociate yourself from the general accusation, for — who knows? — perhaps you could have done something along the line to make this a safer environment in which to conduct the political arguments that are the heart's blood of democracy. But then (so you ruminate, trying to avoid smugness) there is the reputation of your country to consider, and it can't be that it is uniquely evil or a planet that has never been really civilized within the full meaning of the term.

With no desire to dodge any issue, you find yourself bridling

at the accusation of collective guilt. Trying to discover a common denominator in the recent assassinations, you find it impossible to link the Martin Luther King murder with the killing of the two Kennedys. James Earl Ray, the accused murderer of King, was a common jailbird who has yet to speak out, and nothing really definite is known to the public of his associates and his activities. At least one commentator has tried to link the Kennedy murders with that of King by saying that the subject of "race" had so poisoned America's life that violence has taken over. But Lee Harvey Oswald, the presumed killer of John F. Kennedy, was not interested in racial politics. He was a class warrior who had cut his eyeteeth on Marxist literature and whose admiration went out to Fidel Castro. As for the man who shot Bobby Kennedy, he apparently did it for something that is only remotely related to the common life of America. Bobby Kennedy had made some remarks about the need to maintain the integrity of Israel which any other U.S. political candidate might have made. His accused killer, a Jordanian whose childhood was spent in that hot and desiccated land below the Mount of Olives in the Arab part of Palestine, happened to hear Kennedy on the subject of Israel instead of Gene McCarthy, Hubert Humphrey, Richard Nixon or Nelson Rockefeller, all of whom shared Kennedy's feelings about the need for a peaceful adjustment in the Middle East. So Bobby Kennedy became the sacrifice. Should we feel collectively guilty of his death because he was murdered by someone bent on carrying on a quarrel that is indigenous to the Middle East?

The truth would seem to be that the world plucks at America in ways that mock the workings of the old Madisonian conception of politics, which is built on the idea of temperate argument between the representatives of various checks and balances. The class war theories and the nationalist passions of the Old World intrude upon the New World as Jefferson and Washington feared they would if we took sides in the partisan quarrels of other peoples.

The world, of course, is no longer what it was in the time of Washington and Jefferson. For better or worse, we are caught in the planetary undertow. And this suggests a theme that should be explored by President Johnson's recently created commission to conduct "a penetrating search for the causes of violence." Instead of bowing our heads in shame because of the death of the two Kennedys, we might assert the glory of their essentially American attitude to the world. John F. Kennedy was killed because he had a thoroughly decent objection to the sanguinary class war politics of a Fidel Castro. And Bobby Kennedy was killed because he had an equally decent concern for the safety of the State of Israel. Seen in this light, the Kennedy brothers are martyrs to causes that Americans can embrace with absolutely no feelings of guilt, whether collective or otherwise.

This does not relieve us of the duty to make our environment safe for political argument. Nor does it make any particular allowance for the Martin Luther King murder, which cannot be connected with the Kennedy killings unless, as at least one reputable commentator has supposed, the Maoists commissioned it to cause chaos in our race relations. But the fact that the Kennedy assassinations were, in a manner of speaking, both "offshore" jobs is something that the President's commission must consider if it is to do anything serious about its mission.

Frank Sinatra's next special will be taped in August for broadcast Nov. 25 on CBS. The title, "Francis Albert Sinatra Does His Thing," uses some very up-to-date slang but may sound old-hat by late fall.

CBS will launch its three-part series, "The Cities," dealing with urban blight, on June 28. ABC's six-part series, "Time for Americans," about the race problem, starts the next day, June 27.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, who advocates strong gun controls, and Harold W. Glaser, president of the National Rifle Association, which opposes them, will appear on "Face the Nation" on CBS Sunday.

Try and Stop Me

THERE'S a panhandler on Wall Street whose pitch for a donation is that his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary is in the offing. "And I suppose," nodded one potential sucker, "you're aiming to buy your little woman a surprise gift." "Non-sense," scoffed the panhandler. "I want to get really drunk to forget about it."

Two eminent American playwrights, George S. Kaufman and Robert Sherwood, were co-hosts at a pre-Christmas dinner in a famous midtown restaurant some years ago. Sherwood surprised the guests by producing a group of Scotch highlanders to play some martial airs on their bagpipes. More surprised than any of the guests, in fact, was co-host Kaufman, who hated bagpipe music with a passion difficult to exaggerate. So after each number, Kaufman, unknown to Sherwood, would slip the leader of the group a ten-dollar bill to vamoose while Sherwood, on the other hand, was bribing him ten dollars a clip to play just one more number. It was a great night for the highlanders!

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My seventeen year old son comes home from school and throws out a dozen different, unrecognizable words at the dinner table. I am certain that he doesn't take any of the drugs he talks about, but he actually frightens us because he is so glib about it.

He affects the hippy attitude and dress, but continues to be an excellent student and is at the top third of his class. What should our attitude be towards his constant attempt to engage us in conversation about things we hardly understand?

Mr. T.M., Illinois
Dear Mr. M.: It has become quite a game of sophistication for adolescent boys and girls to create as many names for drugs as they can, as a sign of sophistication. I have heard many of them, but they are changed as quickly as someone is able to make up another. Pep pills, for example, are known as bennies (for benzedrine), purple hearts, footballs, copilots, wake-ups, speed, blessings and new fortunes. There are probably a dozen more. The names are not nearly as significant as really knowing whether or not your child has been "gang tempted" to try them.

"It can't happen in our house" is utterly fallacious. I have had to deal with young narcotic addicts, as a medical consultant at a New York institution. It is terrifying to realize that the boys and girls "on drugs" come from social, economic and intellectually accomplished families like yours or like mine. Not one of this vast group I deal with had any distinguishing appearance that might identify him or her as a potential drug user.

It is obvious that your son, like many other children, banter words deliberately to indicate that they have graduated from being the "squares" their parents are. In most instances, it is an affectation that is short lived and is of no real consequence. Yet parents cannot take a chance and disregard warnings that may suggest their children have been tempted to play around with pot, or marijuana, which is as easily purchased around schools as a candy bar. I can't allow my readers, and parents, to be "conned" into the line that "pot isn't habit forming." Don't fall into that trap. Pot definitely causes psychic dependence and is the beginning of trouble.

The hazard is enormous with "pot" because smoking it is done in "sophisticated gangs" where temptation is great to try the mind bending drugs like LSD, DMT, and STP, all initials for psychological dynamite. I do not think there is one universal answer to the problem in your own family. I don't know that whatever the answer is, it depends on knowing where your children are, what they are doing and who their friends are.

I know how I was able to handle the problem with my teenage daughter, but I do not believe that I have a vain right to feel that my way is the only way. I frankly insisted that a dinner table discussion of drugs deserved attention, but that my interest in books and Beethoven was greater. This was not meant to close out a discussion of drugs, but rather to reduce its importance.

I believe it is most important for parents and children to read, out loud, the desperate destruction of lives reported in newspapers and magazines, of those children who have fallen prey to the drug temptation. I believe it is important, too, to recognize the early evidence of unusual and neurotic behavior in such children. Falling off in studies, changes in the sleep pattern, irritability, explosions of tempers and a host of others may suggest the need of a consultation and a heart-to-heart talk with your doctor. Adolescents welcome their help.

Used aerosol cans can be explosive. Dispose of them carefully.

Gilligan Plugs Vote Registration

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John J. Gilligan, Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, says his party "can win big in November" if an all-out effort is made to get voters registered by the Sept. 25 deadline.

"But if we're talking to people who can't vote, we will be wasting our time," he said at a seminar he sponsored Saturday for Ohio Democratic candidates for the U. S. House. Gilligan said he will plan his own campaign around that of the party's presidential nominee and those of the House candidates.

NEW YORK (AP) — Young people love the jingling tinkle of charm bracelets.

The middle aged and elderly respond to another kind of charm bracelet — the charm bracelet of time, and it is made up of memories.

You're wearing a pretty long bracelet yourself if you can look back among your memories and remember when —

Golfers looked natty in caps and baggy knickers called "plus fours."

Children didn't have to spend money to have a good time. They got a real kick out of such simple pastimes as blowing bubbles and making mud pies.

Anybody who was frustrated about anything could go out in the back yard and work the resentment and bitterness out of his soul by doing something useful — such as chopping kindling wood.

The financial life of wives was so uncomplicated that they still kept their household money in a kitchen cookie jar or hidden under a corner of the living room rug.

If any loose change fell out of Dad's pocket while he dozed on the sofa, it belonged to which ever enterprising kid pulled up the cushion and found it.

As soon as a girl reached court age the front porch became her domain, and the rest of the family no longer was as free to sit there and drink lemonade and discuss the fate of the nation — certainly not, at least, after dusk on weekend summer evenings.

A young lady could become a social success by being able to make good fudge.

A well-to-do family in a small town was one which had a motor car to ride in on fair days but which also still kept a horse and buggy for rainy days when the roads were muddy.

More people were afraid of dying of tuberculosis than of heart attacks.

H.L. Mencken praised Calvin Coolidge as a good president because he let the country alone and didn't do very much to change its ways.

Hoboes were known as "knights of the road," and if you lived near a railroad yard hardly a day would go by but one would knock on your back door and ask for something to eat.

Traveling salesmen — those double-talking smoothies — were widely regarded as the greatest threat to a farm girl's moral welfare. They liked to think they were, too.

An intellectual was anyone who had read his way through the first six inches of the Harvard Five-Foot Bookshelf.

You could travel for miles across any part of America and never hear a jukebox or see a neon sign.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Many financial men see little hope that the flood of paper now inundating Wall Street can be turned back by measures such as early closings of stock exchanges or higher margin requirements.

These moves might block the waves for a while; they will give brokers time to update systems, hire workers, install automation equipment. But on some stormy day that tide will roll in higher than ever.

The relentless pressures that push the tide are these:

—An increase in the number of people who now invest in stocks. In 1959 the total of shareowners was about 12.5 million. Now, less than nine years later, that figure has nearly doubled.

These stockholders are also more affluent than those of 1959. They are much better educated in the ways of the market. Increasingly they seek in stocks not just a good return but a second income.

A report by the New York Stock Exchange estimates that at the end of 1966, financial assets of individuals totaled $1.35 trillion and that almost 40 per cent of this was in stocks.

—The development of professional stock management for the masses, as shown by the growth of mutual and pension funds, bank trust accounts, and now by growing participation in stocks by the nation's largest insurance companies.

In the year that ended Dec. 31, 1967, insurance companies added $3.4 billion to the value of their portfolios of "Big Board" stocks, bringing their total holdings to $18.8 billion.

The mutual funds during this same time added $8.2 billion to the value of their portfolios, for a total of $37.6 billion. These funds have more than tripled their stock holdings since 1957.

The pension funds, largest of the institutions which buy and sell stock, increased the value of their portfolios in 1967 by $13.3 billion, for a total of $43.9 billion. In 1957 they owned one-eighth as much stock.

Other institutions, such as college and university endowments and mutual savings banks, also have greatly increased their participation in stocks. Bank-administered personal trusts now own as much as 15 per cent of all stocks.

With money constantly flowing into their treasuries, most institutions are continually under pressure to get these funds invested. Almost in disregard of some market conditions, they are forced to invest this money.

Evidence of their impact on volume was demonstrated June 13, when 75 trades of 10,000 shares or more moved across the stock exchange ticker, the largest number of big blocks in history.

—Speculation, not just by the little guy, who seems to get more than his share of criticism when something bizarre happens in the market, but by these multi-billion dollar institutions.

Today's speculation is not a typical market episode, a sudden flaring of activity by promoters, the greedy, the bored, that last for a few days or weeks or even months. It is entirely different.

Spurred by the desire to out-pace inflation—which some feel is here for a long while—individuals and institutions are taking big chances and cashing in big rewards. Basic values are overlooked; a stock's volatility is more important. As prices soar, nobody seems to care that a stock might be like a Fourth of July rocket—bound to explode and shower back to earth.

A related syndrome is performance, originally a characteristic of funds but which is spreading to almost every type of institutional investors, including the managers of college endowment.

Performance demands that a portfolio never get seedy, that its results constantly be examined, that laggard stock be weeded out regardless of basic value, that profits be shown by the day, week and month, rather than only by the year. It causes trading to soar.

These are some of the factors that the Federal Reserve, the stock exchanges and the Securities and Exchange Commission now must deal with. All are fundamental problems and their solutions demand time.

The current answers—shorter hours, bigger down payments, restraints on soliciting new business—are only delaying tactics. They could buy enough time for the more basic solutions to be used, but only a speculator would bet on it.

Avoiding Air Collisions

Flying a light plane gets more expensive and more complicated every day, and many pilots oppose any new mandatory equipment.

But a device described to the aeronautical engineers at the Society of Automotive Engineers business aircraft meeting ought to be considered carefully — it could save hundreds of lives.

The device, a collision avoidance system, would protect large airliners from colliding in the air with light planes, a hazard that will grow with increasing airport traffic.

There is no positive proof that the gadget will do what its developers claim, but prospects are promising, and if the unit price can be kept near the $100 and $300 quoted, it will be a good thing indeed.

It requires installation of a special transmitter in the large commercial aircraft, which sends out a signal that is received by a small diode target in the light craft. The small plane returns a different signal to the liner, indicating direction, range and rate of approach, time until a theoretical collision, altitude and bearing.

There would be no protection for small planes among themselves, but the airliners, which now often transport nearly 100 persons and someday will carry as many as 400, would have some protection.

Cost to the commercial planes would be greater, and would be in addition to an even more expensive "time-frequency" anti-collision system expected to be operational in a few years. But the added expense can be justified by the fact that lighter craft constitute at least 97 per cent of planes in the air.

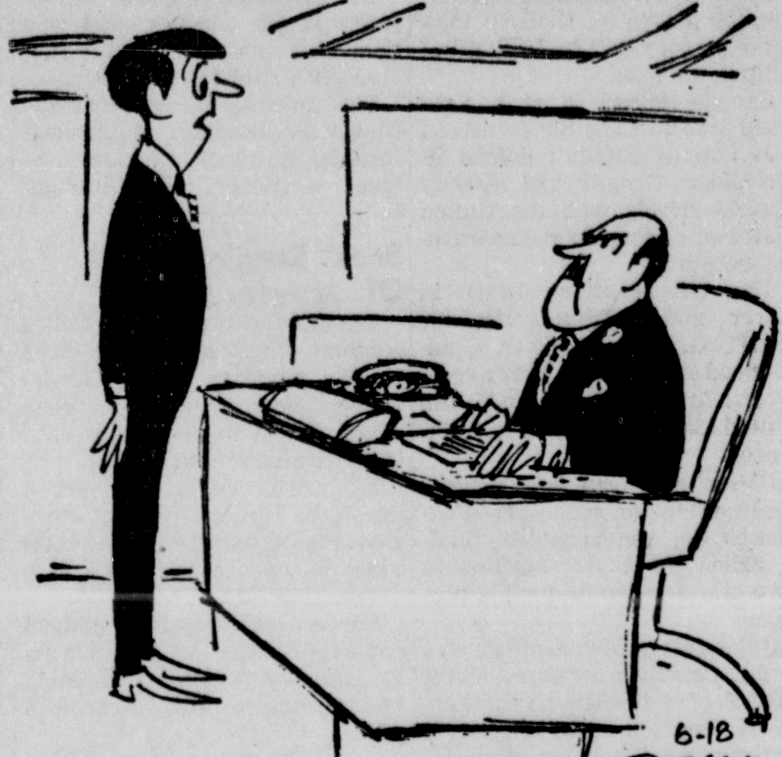

To be effective, the devices would have to be required, at least on radio equipped planes.

Some flying farmers and small-town pilots do not have radios, but neither do they usually land at congested city airports where most of the danger lies.

More than 500 persons have died in midair collisions in the U.S. between airliners in the last 20 years, and 113 have died in collisions between airliners and small craft in the last year.

It is apparent that something must be done about this problem. The Dinode collision avoidance system appears to be one method worth pursuing.

THERE'S a panhandler on Wall Street whose pitch for a donation is that his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary is in the offing. "And I suppose," nodded one potential sucker, "you're aiming to buy your little woman a surprise gift." "Non-sense," scoffed the panhandler. "I want to get really drunk to forget about it."

Two eminent American playwrights, George S. Kaufman and Robert Sherwood, were co-hosts at a pre-Christmas dinner in a famous midtown restaurant some years ago. Sherwood surprised the guests by producing a group of Scotch highlanders to play some martial airs on their bagpipes. More surprised than any of the guests, in fact, was co-host Kaufman, who hated bagpipe music with a passion difficult to exaggerate. So after each number, Kaufman, unknown to Sherwood, would slip the leader of the group a ten-dollar bill to vanquish while Sherwood, on the other hand, was bribing him ten dollars a clip to play just one more number. It was a great night for the highlanders!

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My seventeen year old son comes home from school and throws out a dozen different, unrecognizable words at the dinner table. I am certain that he doesn't take any of the drugs he talks about, but he actually frightens us because he is so glib about it.

He affects the hippy attitude and dress, but continues to be an excellent student and is at the top third of his class. What should our attitude be towards his constant attempt to engage us in conversation about things we hardly understand?

Mr. T.M., Illinois
Dear Mr. M.: It has become quite a game of sophistication for adolescent boys and girls to create as many names for drugs as they can, as a sign of sophistication. I have heard many of them, but they are changed as quickly as someone is able to make up another. Pep pills, for example, are known as bennies (for benzedrine), purple hearts, footballs, copilots, wake-ups, speed, blessings and new fortunes.

There are probably a dozen more. The names are not nearly as significant as really knowing whether or not your child has been "gang tempted" to try them.

"It can't happen in our house" is utterly fallacious. I have had to deal with young narcotic addicts, as a medical consultant at a New York institution. It is terrifying to realize that the boys and girls "on drugs" come from social, economic and intellectually accomplished families like yours or like mine. Not one of this vast group I deal with had any distinguishing appearance that might identify him or her as a potential drug user.

It is obvious that your son, like many other children, banter words deliberately to indicate that they have graduated from being the "squares" their parents are. In most instances, it is an affection that is short lived and is of no real consequence. Yet parents cannot take a chance and disregard warnings that may suggest their children have been tempted to play around with pot, or marijuana, which is as easily purchased around schools as a candy bar. I can't allow my readers, and parents, to be "conned" into the line that "pot isn't habit forming." Don't fall into that trap. Pot definitely causes psychic dependence and is the beginning of trouble.

The hazard is enormous with "pot" because smoking it is done in "sophisticated gangs" where temptation is great to try the mind bending drugs like LSD, DMT, and STP, all initials for psychological dynamite. I do not think there is one universal answer to the problem in your own family. I don't know that whatever the answer is, it depends on knowing where your children are, what they are doing and who their friends are.

I know how I was able to handle the problem with my teenage daughter, but I do not believe that I have a vain right to feel that my way is the only way. I frankly insisted that a dinner table discussion of drugs deserved attention, but that my interest in books and Beethoven was greater. This was not meant to close out a discussion of drugs, but rather to reduce its importance.

I believe it is most important for parents and children to read, out loud, the desperate destruction of lives reported in newspapers and magazines, of those children who have fallen prey to the drug temptation. I believe it is important, too, to recognize the early evidence of unusual and neurotic behavior in such children. Falling off in studies, changes in the sleep pattern, irritability, explosions of tempers and a host of others may suggest the need of a consultation and a heart-to-heart talk with your doctor. Adolescents welcome their help.

Gilligan Plugs Vote Registration

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John J. Gilligan, Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, says his party "can win big in November" if an all-out effort is made to get voters registered by the Sept. 25 deadline.

"But if we're talking to people who can't vote, we will be wasting our time," he said at a seminar he sponsored Saturday for Ohio Democratic candidates for the U. S. House.

Gilligan said he will plan his own campaign around that of the party's presidential nominee and those of the House candidates.

The financial life of wives was so uncomplicated that they still kept their household money in a kitchen cookie jar or hidden under a corner of the living room rug.

If any loose change fell out of Dad's pocket while he dozed on the sofa, it belonged to which ever enterprising kid pulled up the cushion and found it.

The Kennedy Killings

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

When something like the Kennedy tragedy happens, and people respond by accusing themselves and their fellow citizens of complicity in some strange and undefined collective guilt, it leaves you with a rather hopeless feeling. You don't want to dissociate yourself from the general accusation, for — who knows? — perhaps you could have done something along the line to make this a safer environment in which to conduct the political arguments that are the heart's blood of democracy. But then (so you ruminate, trying to avoid smugness) there is the reputation of your country to consider, and it can't be that it is uniquely evil or a planet that has never been really civilized within the full meaning of the term.

With no desire to dodge any issue, you find yourself bridling

at the accusation of collective guilt. Trying to discover a common denominator in the recent assassinations, you find it impossible to link the Martin Luther King murder with the killing of the two Kennedys. James Earl Ray, the accused murderer of King, was a common jailbird who has yet to speak out, and nothing really definite is known to the public of his associated and his activities. At least one commentator has tried to link the Kennedy murders with that of King by saying that the subject of "race" had so poisoned America's life that violence has taken over. But Lee Harvey Oswald, the presumed killer of John F. Kennedy, was not interested in racial politics. He was a class warrior who had cut his eyeteeth on Marxist literature and whose admiration went out to Fidel Castro. As for the man who shot Bobby Kennedy, he apparently did it for something that is only remotely related to the common life of America. Bobby Kennedy had made some remarks about the need to maintain the integrity of Israel which any other U.S. political candidate might have made. His accused killer, a Jordanian whose childhood was spent in that hot and desiccated land below the Mount of Olives in the Arab part of Palestine, happened to hear Kennedy on the subject of Israel instead of Gene McCarthy, Hubert Humphrey, Richard Nixon or Nelson Rockefeller, all of whom shared Kennedy's feelings about the need for a peaceful adjustment in the Middle East. So Bobby Kennedy became the sacrifice. Should we feel collectively guilty of his death because he was murdered by someone bent on carrying on a quarrel that is indigenous to the Middle East?

The truth would seem to be that the world plucks at America in ways that mock the workings of the old Madisonian conception of politics, which is built on the idea of temperate argument — between the representatives of various checks and balances. The class war theories and the nationalist passions of the Old World intrude upon the New World as Jefferson and Washington feared they would if we took sides in the partisan quarrels of other peoples.

The world, of course, is no longer what it was in the time of Washington and Jefferson. For better or worse, we are caught in the planetary undertow. And this suggests a theme that should be explored by President Johnson's recently created commission to conduct "a penetrating search for the causes of violence." Instead of bowing our heads in shame because of the death of the two Kennedys, we might assert the glory of their essentially American attitude to the world. John F. Kennedy was killed because he had a thoroughly decent objection to the sanguinary class war politics of a Fidel Castro. And Bobby Kennedy was killed because he had an equally decent concern for the safety of the State of Israel. Seen in this light, the Kennedy brothers are martyrs to causes that Americans can embrace with absolutely no feelings of guilt, whether collective or otherwise.

This does not relieve us of the duty to make our environment safe for political argument. Nor does it make any particular allowance for the Martin Luther King murder, which cannot be connected with the Kennedy killings unless, as at least one reputable commentator has supposed, the Maoists commissioned it to cause chaos in our race relations. But the fact that the Kennedy assassinations were, in a manner of speaking, both "offshore" jobs is something that the President's commission must consider if it is to do anything serious about its mission.

The viewer has an opportunity to see the Miss America contestants in action and most pick one candidate early in the show and root for her.

This was impossible in the college queen contest since it started 10 days ago in New York with a homemaker's competition and moved to Miami a few days later.

Viewers saw only some filmed bits from the earlier tests in homemaking, safe driving and something called "fashion creativity" but not enough to create any identification with the competitors.

The program was poorly organized since it spent too much time on extraneous entertainment—old newsreel clips of college girls at the turn of the century and songs by host Mike Douglas and a musical group. Then there was a static series of unproductive interviews designed to test poise.

By that time it was necessary to hurry through the big moment—the choice of a winner. Miss Dickerson scarcely had time to burst into the mandatory happy tears before the end credits of the show rolled into view.

The next program in the category will be "Miss Universe" on CBS July 13, also from Miami. That one, however, is strictly a beauty contest.

Frank Sinatra's next special will be taped in August for broadcast Nov. 25 on CBS. The title, "Francis Albert Sinatra Does His Thing," uses some very up-to-date slang but may sound old-hat by late fall.

CBS will launch its three-part series, "The Cities," dealing with urban blight, on June 26. ABC's six-part series, "Time for Americans," about the race problem, starts the next day, June 27.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, who advocates strong gun controls, and Harold W. Glassen, president of the National Rifle Association, which opposes them, will appear on "Face the Nation" on CBS Sunday.

Something To Think About . . . An Open Letter

By JEAN CRIST

Dear Readers: Today I would like to share with you some of the comments that I have received since I started writing these articles and my response to them. Perhaps some of you have had the same reactions.

The one I get the biggest kick out of is, "How did you get so smart, so quick?" Well, obviously the answer to that is simple, "I didn't." My ideas come as a result of watching people and several years of reading about them. Any really worth-while ideas or precepts are from the minds of men who have handed down their wisdom through the ages in what they have written. My only purpose is to present the ideas to you for your consideration and I claim no credit for their origination, only for their presentation.

"Has your dentist ever forgiven you for the article you wrote about your trip to his office?" I hope so.

Several have said, "I know you wrote that directly to me!" With the exception of two instances when I did write about particular individuals I have no one in mind as I write. But if I have achieved this result, I am delighted.

"Which neighbor is the gardener?" The one with "four" boys.

"You don't always practice what you preach!" Didn't say I did.

"I couldn't agree with you more!" This comment reflected the majority of response I received in regard to the article about wearing tight stretch pants and curlers in the hair in public places. What interested me was that most of this response was from men who were very definite in their opinion that it was unbecoming for women to dress in this fashion.

"I really enjoy your articles."

Thanks.

"Well, I for one didn't agree with what you said and I'll bet there are a lot of others who didn't!" This is great, it is great, it means you read the article and thought about what was said, what more could a writer ask for? I would like very much to hear from you if you disagree strongly with anything I have to say. There is nothing more frustrating than not to be able to answer someone you just don't agree with at all. And you may have something to tell me that would give me a whole new dimension on the subject.

My main purpose in writing the column is stated in the title "Something To Think About". If, because of reading my article the reader starts thinking about the subject and tries to sort out his own views and thoughts concerning it, I shall feel my time has been well spent. Our world moves fast today, much of what we do of necessity becomes automatic and monotonous and unless we are in a field where we are forced to learn and to think we soon find it increasingly difficult to use these faculties. So it is my hope to prod you occasionally to use your thinking ability.

For an inexperienced writer, such as myself, to be given the opportunity to have anything she has written published, is a privilege. I feel any individual who writes for the public, in even such a small way as this, has a responsibility to the reader to provide content which shows respect for their integrity and intelligence.

Naturally, it is my desire that you find the material presented both informative and entertaining. If affords me a great deal of enjoyment to write the column and I hope as much for you to read it. — — — Sincerely yours, Jean Crist.

San Francisco Passes Gun Law

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Board of Supervisors has passed a gun law requiring the registration of all firearms sold or transferred within San Francisco.

Under the ordinance passed 7-3 Monday, registration will involve a $2 fee with a receipt like an automobile registration slip. Violators would be subject to a fine of up to $500 and up to six months in jail, plus confiscation of weapons.

Mayor Joseph Alioto called for such an ordinance immediately after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and urged citizens to turn in their firearms. His office says more than 300 have been turned in.

High Court Voids Rail Rate Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court denied permission Monday for railroads to cut freight rates to meet truck and barge competition.

Agreeing with the Interstate Commerce Commission, the court ruled 8-1 that rate-cut proposals may not be weighed by the standard of "out-of-pocket" costs.

The "out-of-pocket" formula could, if applied broadly, result in ruinous competition with the railroads emerging the ultimate victors, the court said.

Federal law and national transportation policy make it illegal to cut rates below cost to beat out a competing means of transportation. The question was how to measure costs.

Truck and barge operators claimed two railroads, the Pennsylvania and the Louisville and Nashville, set below-cost rates in 1965 when they dropped to $5.11 a ton from $11.86 a ton their rate for moving ingot molds from Neville Island and Pittsburgh, Pa., to Steelton, Ky.

For 10 years almost all the ingot molds had been moved between the points by trucks and barges and since 1960 the charge had been $5.11 a ton, exactly the new rate posted by the railroads.

The ICC ruled against the railroads and appealed along with the truck and barge interests to the Supreme Court when the ruling was set aside by a federal court in Louisville May 15, 1967.

Beat the phone company out of a couple of bucks.

Wait till after 7 p.m. and call anywhere in the country for a dollar.

A lot of long distance callers would be in seventh heaven if they could put one over on the phone company.

Because they think we're putting one over on them.

Their gripe is that they're paying more for calling long distance during the day than in the evening hours.

But since most people insist on calling during the day, our overhead goes up, up, up. So our prices can't go down, down, down. And that's why we charge our regular rates.

But at nighttime, we can practically hear a pin drop. Hardly anybody calls long distance, so hardly any equipment is being used.

And that's when any long distance caller can beat us out of a couple of bucks.

Because if you can wait till after 7 p.m. or any time of the day on Saturday and Sunday, you can call anybody, anywhere in the country for a dollar or less.*

So you don't really need a lot of money to call long distance.

All you need is a little patience.

Something To Think About . . . An Open Letter

By JEAN CRIST

Dear Readers: Today I would like to share with you some of the comments that I have received since I started writing these articles and my response to them. Perhaps some of you have had the same reactions.

The one I get the biggest kick out of is, "How did you get so smart, so quick?" Well, obviously the answer to that is simple, "I didn't." My ideas come as a result of watching people and several years of reading about them. Any really worthwhile ideas or precepts are from the minds of men who have handed down their wisdom through the ages in what they have written. My only purpose is to present the ideas to you for your consideration and I claim no credit for their origination, only for their presentation.

"Has your dentist ever forgiven you for the article you wrote about your trip to his office?" I hope so.

Several have said, "I know you wrote that directly to me!" With the exception of two instances when I did write about particular individuals I have no one in mind as I write. But if I have achieved this result, I am delighted!

"Which neighbor is the garden?" The one with "four" boys.

"You don't always practice what you preach?" Didn't say I did.

"I couldn't agree with you more!" This comment reflected the majority of response I received in regard to the article about wearing tight stretch pants and curlers in the hair in public places. What interested me was that most of this response was from men who were very definite in their opinion that it was unbecoming for women to dress in this fashion.

"I really enjoy your articles." Thanks.

"Well, I for one didn't agree with what you said and I'll bet there are a lot of others who didn't!" This is great, it is great, it means you read the article and thought about what was said, what more could a writer ask for? I would like very much to hear from you if you disagree strongly with anything I have to say. There is nothing more frustrating than not to be able to answer someone you just don't agree with at all. And you may have something to tell me that would give me a whole new dimension on the subject.

My main purpose in writing the column is stated in the title "Something To Think About". If, because of reading my article the reader starts thinking about the subject and tries to sort out his own views and thoughts concerning it, I shall feel my time has been well spent. Our world moves fast today, much of what we do of necessity becomes automatic and monotonous and unless we are in a field where we are forced to learn and to think we soon find it increasingly difficult to use these faculties. So it is my hope to prod you occasionally to use your thinking ability.

For an inexperienced writer, such as myself, to be given the opportunity to have anything she has written published, is a privilege. I feel any individual who writes for the public, in even such a small way as this, has a responsibility to the reader to provide content which shows respect for their integrity and intelligence.

Naturally, it is my desire that you find the material presented both informative and entertaining. If affords me a great deal of enjoyment to write the column and I hope as much for you to read it. — Sincerely yours, Jean Crist.

Nuptial Vows Exchanged In St. Joseph's Church

MRS. CLARENCE EDISON ARNOLD

Father William Metzger performed the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Carolyn Kay Crawford and Clarence Edison Arnold. The altar of St. Joseph's Catholic Church was adorned with baskets of white mums and candelabra for the 11 a.m. June 8, wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford, 125 Walnut St. Mr. Arnold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Arnold, 631 Elm Ave.

Miss Eleanor Snyder, organist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose for her wedding day a gown of white silk organza and alencon lace, fashioned in the easy sheath silhouette. The molded empire bodice, featured an oval neckline and elbow length sleeves. Alencon lace encircled the skirt. The detachable train flowed gracefully into chapel length. An organza Dior bow accented with alencon lace held her shoulder length bouffant veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of shasta daisies.

Miss Joyce Whaley served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Arnold, sister of the groom; Mrs. Geraldine Rich and Miss Donna Folk, Columbus. The attendants wore floor length gowns of yellow chiffon fashioned in the sheath silhouette. The molded bodices featured oval necklines and were accented with embroidery at the empire waistlines. They wore matching headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of daisies.

Kenneth Crawford, brother of the bride was best man. Seating the guests were Robert Brown and Orlando Brown, uncles of the groom.

Mrs. Crawford was attired in a two-piece light blue suit with matching accessories. Mrs. Arnold wore a two-piece green suit with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow mums.

A reception in the banquet room of the L-K Restaurant followed the ceremony. Centering the refreshment table was a four tiered cake with bride and groom figurines. White daisies surrounded the cake and punch bowl, and a bouquet of large white mums graced the table.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jack Crawford, Mrs. David Crawford and Mrs. George Crawford, sisters-in-law of the bride, and Miss Barbara Kornis of Somerset, Pa.

For a wedding trip to Pensacola, Fla., the bride wore a two piece yellow cotton suit with matching accessories and the white daisy corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Circleville High School and Metropolitan School of Business. Mr. Arnold, also a graduate of Circleville High School, is presently serving with the U.S. Navy. He plans to attend Ohio State University after completing his tour of duty.

The couple will reside in Pensacola, Fla., while Mr. Arnold remains in service. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Columbus, Chillicothe, Delphos, and Pittsburgh and Somerset, Pa.

Shower Honors Bride-Elect Tamala Wilkins

Tamala E. Wilkins, bride-elect of William H. Welsh was honored recently with a shower given by Mrs. John Hopper and Mrs. David Bozman in the home of Mrs. Hopper.

Games were played with prizes going to Mrs. Emmett Stapleton, Miss Diane Stapleton, Mrs. Hazel Stonerock and Mrs. Dixie Watters, with all winners giving their prizes to the honored guest.

Those attending were Mrs. Emma Dennis, Mrs. Leland Schlegler, Mrs. Hazel Stonerock, Mrs. Dixie Watters, Steve and Scott; Mrs. Glenna Warner, Mrs. Russell Palm, Mrs. Carl Wilkins, Mrs. Marie Wilkins, Mrs. Carroll Stonerock, Mrs. Esther Stout, Mrs. William Imbler, Mrs. Louise Cantrell, Mrs. Paul Speakman, Paula and Carol, all of Circleville; Mrs. Charles Stonerock, Williamsport, and Mrs. Emmett Stapleton and Miss Diane Stapleton of Tarlton.

Gifts were sent by Mrs. Betty Goodman, Mrs. James Welsh, Mrs. Harley Bennett, Mrs. David Lewis, Mrs. Donald East, Mrs. Mildred Caldwell and Mrs. Larry McDaniels.

Society Holds Luncheon Meet

Members of the Beta Rho Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society held a luncheon meeting recently in Canal Winchester, birthplace of Oley Speaks who wrote "On the Road to Mandalay", "Sylvia", "Morning", and many other songs. Favors of coleus plants covered in red and gold decorated the tables at Shades Restaurant. Hostesses were Mrs. Margaret Evans and Mrs. Charles Towler. Special guests from Alpha Nu Chapter were Ida Marie Neeley, Golda Hedges, and Helen Hedges.

Following the luncheon a short business meeting was conducted by Miss Amy Miga, president. As the roll was called by Mrs. Robert Tacy each member told of an unexpected happening in her school room this year. The financial report was given by Mrs. Avis Grace Dresbach. Mrs. Dick Tootle distributed questionnaires to be used in preparation of the program for next year.

The program was presented by Mrs. Joseph Peters who discussed the life of Oley Speaks, the song writer. Mr. Speaks was not only born in Cana, Winchester, but spent his boyhood there. Later he moved to Columbus but still maintained many friendships in Canal Winchester.

Years later the Canal Winchester School Board appropriated money to buy manuscripts of Oley Speaks' work to be placed in a library to honor him.

In addition Oley gave over one hundred manuscripts to the board. Some of his musically talented friends sent manuscripts of their works too.

Later the small brick building in which Oley Speaks went to school was connected with the new high school building. The room between the two became a library museum for Oley Speaks' works.

The library was dedicated on September 11, 1949. Oley Speaks, however, did not live to see the dedication ceremony. In conclusion Mrs. Peters expressed the thought that people so often fail to investigate and appreciate important historical personages in their own area.

Society Holds Luncheon Meet

Members of the Beta Rho Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society held a luncheon meeting recently in Canal Winchester, birthplace of Oley Speaks who wrote "On the Road to Mandalay", "Sylvia", "Morning", and many other songs. Favors of coles plants covered in red and gold decorated the tables at Shades' Restaurant. Hostesses were Mrs. Margaret Evans and Mrs. Charles Towler. Special guests from Alpha Nu Chapter were Ida Marie Neeley, Golda Hedges, and Helen Hedges.

Following the luncheon a short business meeting was conducted by Miss Amy Miga, president. As the roll was called by Mrs. Robert Tacy each member told of an unexpected happening in her school room this year. The financial report was given by Mrs. Avis Grace Driesbach. Mrs. Dick Tootle distributed questionnaires to be used in preparation of the program for next year.

The program was presented by Mrs. Joseph Peters who discussed the life of Oley Speaks, the song writer. Mr. Speaks was not only born in Cana, Winchester, but spent his boyhood there. Later he moved to Columbus but still maintained many friendships in Canal Winchester.

Years later the Canal Winchester School Board appropriated money to buy manuscripts of Oley Speaks' work to be placed in a library to honor him.

In addition Oley gave over one hundred manuscripts to the board. Some of his musically talented friends sent manuscripts of their works too.

Later the small brick building in which Oley Speaks went to school was connected with the new high school building. The room between the two became a library museum for Oley Speaks' works.

The library was dedicated on September 11, 1949. Oley Speaks, however, did not live to see the dedication ceremony. In conclusion Mrs. Peters expressed the thought that people so often fail to investigate and appreciate important historical personages in their own area.

Our Hawaiian Recipes Round Out Luau; Wow!

BY ALICE DENHOFF

Well, I got an Hawaiian Luau under way in my last column with the appetizer, the party-pack egg roll, pupu, accompanied by a pungent dip.

Now, to concentrate on the rest of the meal, prepare:

LUAU HAM LOAF

- 1 1/4 tsp. butter
 - 4 1/2 tsp. brown sugar
 - 1 can (5 oz. water chestnuts
 - Lemon, orange or pineapple wedges, and, if desired, maraschino cherries
 - 3 eggs
 - 3-4 c. milk
 - 1 1/2 c. crushed canned noodles
 - 3-4 tsp. dry mustard
 - 2 tsp. chopped green pepper
 - 1 tsp. soy sauce
 - Dash cayenne pepper
 - 1 1/2 lb. (6 c.) ground smoked ham
- Melt butter with brown sugar; place in bottom of a greased pan (about 9x5x2 3-4").
- On this mixture, place an attractive pattern of sliced water chestnuts, citrus or pineapple wedges, and maraschino cherry halves in a pretty Luau flower pattern.

Beat eggs in mixing bowl; add all ingredients except ham. Then blend in ham, mixing well. Pack mixture firmly into loaf pan.

Bake 1 hr. and 45 min. at 350 degrees F. Leave in pan about 10 min., then run knife around the edges and turn out carefully, with the flower pattern on top.

Serve with canned or frozen fried rice prepared according to pkg. directions.

Recipe serves 4-6 and is exotically Hawaiian even if it is meat loaf.

HAWAIIAN PARFAIT

- 2 pkg. (4 oz. each) Lemon Pudding
 - 1 can (11 oz.) mandarin orange sections
 - 1 can shredded coconut
 - Maraschino cherries, if desired
- Prepare pudding according to pkg. directions. Allow to cool slightly. Fill 6 parfait glasses with alternating layers of pudding, orange sections and coconut. Garnish with orange sections, coconut and, if used, a cherry placed to complete a flower shape.

HAWAIIAN ICED TEA

- 2 cans (45 oz. each) Hawaiian Punch
 - 10 tea bags
- Heat punch until it reaches a full boil; remove from heat. Place tea bags in punch and steep from 3 to 5 min. Remove tea bags and serve over ice cubes, garnish with fresh fruits, if desired. Makes 8 to 10 servings and is especially "island-inspiring" when pineapple spears serve as stirrers. Aloha!

Street's Birthday In Bellefontaine
BELLEFONTAINE Ohio
(AP) — Court Avenue here, claimed to be the oldest concrete street in the United States, will mark its diamond anniversary July 27.

The Chamber of Commerce said the street's 75th birthday will be noted with a parade, a national drum and bugle corps contest and a queen contest—for 75-year-old entrants.

The nation's 200,000 tons of low-cost uranium reserves will be exhausted by the mid-1970s. Half a million tons must be found by late 1980 to supply proposed power plants.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Epileptic's Mother Won't Face Facts

DEAR ABBY: One day last week a little neighbor boy was here playing with my son. Fortunately I was present when the playmate had an epileptic seizure. I took him home and told his mother what had happened. Abby, she turned on me as if I had accused her child of some crime. She said, "What do you mean, EPILEPTIC? Once in a while he has a little fainting spell but he'll outgrow it. Besides, it can't be epilepsy because we have never had any insanity in our family!"

I tried to tell her that I knew an epileptic seizure when I saw

1866 Law Bars Race Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court held 7 to 2 Monday that an 1866 civil rights law bars all racial discrimination, private as well as public, in the sale or rental of property.

"Congress meant exactly what it said," Justice Potter Stewart wrote in the courts far reaching decision.

The Reconstruction period law reaches both private and public action, the court said, and its enactment by Congress was held to be a valid exercise of congressional power.

Justices John M. Harlan and Byron R. White dissented.

The 1866 law provides that: "All citizens of the United States shall have the same right, in every state and territory, as is enjoyed by white citizens thereof to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold and convey real and personal property."

It was invoked by Joseph Lee Jones, a Negro, and his wife, Barbara Jo, who is white, when they were barred from buying a home in the Paddock Woods Subdivision outside St. Louis.

As a result, the court, 102 years after the law was passed, ruled for the first time on its full scope and its constitutionality.

Bunker Hill Day Is Celebrated

BOSTON (AP) — Monday was Bunker Hill Day in Boston and about 250 men costumed as British soldiers and colonial irregulars re-enacted the famous battle Sunday before an audience which included the British consul-general in Boston.

On June 17, 1775, the date of the real battle, about 1,000 Colonial soldiers fought 1,000 British regulars. The English suffered some 1,000 dead and the Colonials about 300.

Marine Captain Is Adviser To 'Crazy Water Buffaloes'

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — For eight months a young Marine captain, Don Bonsper, has been the U.S. advisor to a bunch of "crazy water buffaloes."

It was not exactly what he had in mind when he graduated from the Naval Academy in 1965 but it has been rewarding, he says.

Bonsper's buffaloes are South Vietnamese marines of the 2nd Battalion, which won its nickname in battle three years ago.

The unit charged a Viet Cong position like "crazy water buffaloes," a captured guerrilla report said.

The Vietnamese marines, mostly farm youths with a healthy respect for the nation's cantankerous beast of burden, liked that and now sport a shoulder patch showing a wild-eyed buffalo.

While Bonsper watched, the little marines in camouflage green were doggedly pushing through a rubble street on the western edge of Saigon. Columns of smoke spiraled skyward and the buildings occasionally shook from rocket bursts. It was blistering hot.

Unperturbed, the blonde-crew-cut American checked grease-penciled maps, listened to the South Vietnamese major at his side and worked the battered pack-radios connecting with the helicopter gunships overhead.

Although seven had died that morning and 11 were wounded, the South Vietnamese marines were relaxed and sometimes even carefree.

Scratching his head, Bonsper had to reach back to figure out how many men the 600-man battalion had lost since he joined it eight months ago.

"It must have been about 60 killed and 300 wounded."

Luckily, Bonsper had gone through that—and five previous months as a platoon leader and company executive officer with the American Marines—without being scratched.

From his home in Portville, N.Y., Bonsper won a Naval Academy competitive exam and emerged in 1964 as a Marine second lieutenant with a new bride and a Fulbright Scholarship for a year's study in Costa Rica.

A year later, he was in Vietnam. He has spent practically all of his time here in the field. The only break was a week's leave with his wife in Hawaii—returning Feb. 3 and driving straight to his battalion which was then also fighting in Saigon.

Now, in the little house where the Vietnamese marines had set up their command post, Bonsper peeked at a photo of his wife, carefully tucked inside the confidential folder of the battalion's official combat log, and contemplated his 25th birthday next month.

"I'll make it," he grinned. "I've got 15 days until I go home. I'm ready."

Wet Bird Nest Shorts Circuit

CINCINNATI (AP) — A bird's nest, disintegrated by rain, fell on a 66,000 volt electrical unit Monday at a substation in near-by Kings Mills and left parts of three counties without power.

Loveland, which straddles Hamilton and Clermont counties, reported an outage of 34 minutes, and Kings Mills, Maineville and Morrow in Warren County went without power for one hour and 32 minutes.

The power failure, which occurred shortly after 5 a.m., was caused by a short circuit in the equipment, the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. said.

Teacher Follows Apple Tradition

PITTSBURGH, Kan. (AP) — Once a year tradition is reversed at Kansas State College in Pittsburg as teachers present their students with apples.

The custom has been observed for 64 years and was started on March 8, 1905, to commemorate an historical series of events.

During a bitter, but subsequently successful legislative battle for $10,000 to buy the college's first land, R. S. Russ, the first head of the school, was fined a barrel of apples by a jovial legislature.

Upon Russ' return to Pittsburg the students gleefully extracted a similar penalty from the faculty and the reversed tradition continues to this day.

Dear Abby: Epileptic's Mother Won't Face Facts

DEAR ABBY: One day last week a little neighbor boy was here playing with my son. Fortunately I was present when the playmate had an epileptic seizure. I took him home and told his mother what had happened. Abby, she turned on me as if I had accused her child of some crime. She said, "What do you mean, EPILEPTIC? Once in a while he has a little fainting spell but he'll outgrow it. Besides, it can't be epilepsy because we have never had any insanity in our family!"

I tried to tell her that I knew an epileptic seizure when I saw

1866 Law Bars Race Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court held 7 to 2 Monday that an 1866 civil rights law bars all racial discrimination, private as well as public, in the sale or rental of property.

"Congress meant exactly what it said," Justice Potter Stewart wrote in the courts far reaching decision.

The Reconstruction period law reaches both private and public action, the court said, and its enactment by Congress was held to be a valid exercise of congressional power.

Justices John M. Harlan and Byron R. White dissented.

The 1866 law provides that: "All citizens of the United States shall have the same right, in every state and territory, as is enjoyed by white citizens thereof to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold and convey real and personal property."

It was invoked by Joseph Lee Jones, a Negro, and his wife, Barbara Jo, who is white, when they were barred from buying a home in the Paddock Woods Subdivision outside St. Louis.

As a result, the court, 102 years after the law was passed, ruled for the first time on its full scope and its constitutionality.

Bunker Hill Day Is Celebrated

BOSTON (AP)—Monday was Bunker Hill Day in Boston and about 250 men costumed as British soldiers and colonial irregulars re-enacted the famous battle Sunday before an audience which included the British consul-general in Boston.

On June 17, 1775, the date of the real battle, about 1,000 Colonials battled 3,000 British regulars. The English suffered some 1,000 dead and the Colonials about 300.

CINCINNATI (AP) — General Electric's CF6 turbofan engines which will power the 25 tri-jets purchased by American Airlines over the weekend will cost $52.5 million, GE officials said Sunday.

Marine Captain Is Adviser To 'Crazy Water Buffaloes'

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — For eight months a young Marine captain, Don Bonsper, has been the U.S. advisor to a bunch of "crazy water buffaloes."

It was not exactly what he had in mind when he graduated from the Naval Academy in 1965 but it has been rewarding, he says.

Bonsper's buffaloes are South Vietnamese marines of the 2nd Battalion, which won its nickname in battle three years ago.

The unit charged a Viet Cong position like "crazy water buffaloes," a captured guerrilla report said.

The Vietnamese marines, mostly farm youths with a healthy respect for the nation's cantankerous beast of burden, liked that and now sport a shoulder patch showing a wild-eyed buffalo.

While Bonsper watched, the little marines in camouflage green were doggedly pushing through a rubble street on the western edge of Saigon. Columns of smoke spiraled skyward and the buildings occasionally shook from rocket bursts. It was blistering hot.

Unperturbed, the blonde crew-cut American checked grease-penciled maps, listened to the South Vietnamese major at his side and worked the battered pack-radios connecting with the helicopter gunships overhead.

Although seven had died that morning and 11 were wounded, the South Vietnamese marines were relaxed and sometimes even carefree.

Scratching his head, Bonsper had to reach back to figure out how many men the 600-man battalion had lost since he joined it eight months ago.

"It must have been about 60 killed and 300 wounded,"

Luckily, Bonsper had gone through that—and five previous months as a platoon leader and company executive officer with the American Marines—without being scratched.

From his home in Portville, N.Y., Bonsper won a Naval Academy competitive exam and emerged in 1964 as a Marine second lieutenant with a new bride and a Fulbright Scholarship for a year's study in Costa Rica.

A year later, he was in Vietnam. He has spent practically all of his time here in the field. The only break was a week's leave with his wife in Hawaii—returning Feb. 3 and driving straight to his battalion which was then also fighting in Saigon.

Now, in the little house where the Vietnamese marines had set up their command post, Bonsper peeked at a photo of his wife, carefully tucked inside the confidential folder of the battalion's official combat log, and contemplated his 25th birthday next month.

"I'll make it," he grinned. "I've got 15 days until I go home. I'm ready."

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH
With Little Worry

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping, or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Then sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. FASTEETH holds dentures firmer and more comfortably. Makes eating easier. It's alkaline—doesn't sour. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feel. Helps check plate odor. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.

Wet Bird Nest Shorts Circuit

CINCINNATI (AP)—A bird's nest, disintegrated by rain, fell on a 66,000 volt electrical unit Monday at a substation in near-by Kings Mills and left parts of three counties without power.

Loveland, which straddles Hamilton and Clermont counties, reported an outage of 34 minutes, and Kings Mills, Maineville and Morrow in Warren County went without power for one hour and 32 minutes.

The power failure, which occurred shortly after 5 a.m., was caused by a short circuit in the equipment, the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. said.

Family Outing Ends in Tragedy

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — An outing for Nicodemus Garza and his family ended in tragedy Sunday. Three of the Garzas' five children drowned in Lake Belton.

Witnesses said four of the youngsters apparently slipped into water over their heads while wading. Nicodemus Jr., about 12, was rescued while clinging to a tree.

Teacher Follows Apple Tradition

PITTSBURGH, Kan. (AP) — Once a year tradition is reversed at Kansas State College in Pittsburg as teachers present their students with apples.

The custom has been observed for 64 years and was started on March 8, 1905, to commemorate an historical series of events.

During a bitter, but subsequently successful legislative battle for $10,000 to buy the college's first land, R. S. Russ, the first head of the school, was fined a barrel of apples by a jovial legislature.

Upon Russ' return to Pittsburgh the students gleefully extracted a similar penalty from the faculty and the reversed tradition continues to this day.

Weekend Floods Court With 52 Traffic Cases

Circleville Municipal Court felt the effects of a busy weekend with a full traffic docket Monday. There were a total of 52 cases called into court.

Forfeiting bonds of $19 for speeding were David Fouch, 43, of 170 Fairview Ave.; Kenneth Hardesty, 30, Circleville; Willis Lowery, 19, Route 3; Bryan Stroup, 19, of 381 Town St.; Arthur E. Wynkoop, 38, Route 1; Stoutsville; Vaughn Coleman, 23, Box 132, Williamsport; Jack Clark, 42, Williamsport; Donald Hollis, 27, Ashville; Norma Stevens, 29, Box 11, Laurelville.

Clarence Ehrhart, 40, Route 1; New Holland and Harold D. Gray, 21, of 1303 S. Pickaway St., each forfeited a $24 bond on charges of speeding.

Arley Moss, 23, Route 1, Stoutsville, forfeited a $34 bond for speeding 58 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone. Phyllis Butt, 30, Route 3, forfeited a $44 bond for speeding 58 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone.

Merrill Poling, 71, Route 4, appeared in court on a charge of failing to obey a stop sign. He was found guilty and fined $15 and costs. James G. Conitzano, 36, Route 1, Orient, ran a stop sign and forfeited a $24 bond.

Alvah Riddle Jr., 19, Route 1, forfeited a $19 bond for failing to have a mirror on his motorcycle.

Daniel B. Julian, Box 49, Amanda, pleaded guilty to a charge of drag racing. He was fined $125 and costs, was handed a 60-day suspended jail sentence and had his drivers' license suspended for three years. He was permitted to drive to work during the suspension only after 30 days.

Ray Woodward Wagner, 35, Route 2, Laurelville, was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a valid drivers' license and driving while intoxicated.

He was fined $100 and costs on the first count and $150 and costs on the second. In addition he was placed in the county jail for three days.

A total of 35 out-of-county offenders forfeited $779 in bonds and fines.

Ray Hearing

has been held under round-the-clock guard at Wandsworth Prison while Scotland Yard tried to reconstruct his movements and contacts during the three weeks he is believed to have spent in London before his arrest.

The U.S. Embassy forwarded the request for his extradition to the British government last Wednesday.

Under the 1931 extradition treaty between Britain and the United States, British courts can grant extradition only if U.S. authorities present evidence sufficient to send Ray to trial under British law.

Extradition of Ray was also asked because he is wanted by Missouri to complete a prison term for armed robbery. While extradition on this charge would be almost automatic, the U.S.-British treaty specifies that a suspect can only be tried on the charges for which he has been specifically extradited. Therefore unless he is extradited for the murder of the Negro civil rights leader, he cannot be prosecuted on that charge in the United States.

Business Briefs

Lillian Cook and Margaret Ritchie of the local Production Credit Office attended a seminar sponsored by the eleven Production Credit Assn. of Ohio.

Theme of the seminar was sales and communications. It was held at Christopher Inn in Columbus Wednesday and Thursday. The meeting was attended by some 94 field office secretaries and bookkeepers of the seventy-three Production Credit Offices in Ohio. During the calendar year of 1967 these seventy-three offices disbursed more than $181 million in short and intermediate term credit to some twenty-thousand farmers in Ohio.

The Production Credit Associations are farmer-owned, farmer-operated cooperatives who secure their lending funds from the sale of short term bonds to the investing public.

Fire, Blasts

Hit Cincy Firm

CINCINNATI (AP) — Several explosions, followed by fire, raced through the Queen City Forging Co. in the eastern section of Cincinnati early today causing an estimated $200,000 damage. No one was hurt in the explosions and blaze but a few families living nearby were evacuated.

No cause has been established yet for the explosions. Twenty fire companies brought the blaze at the steel forging plant under control within about one hour. Most of the plant, except for an office section, was heavily damaged. None of the plant's 75 employees was in the structure.

'Y' MEMBERSHIPS — Board members of the local YMCA Chapter received their membership cards from Harold Hewitt (left), director, during a noon luncheon meeting Monday. Receiving cards from Hewitt are Bob Johnson, Dr. Robert Phillips and Dave Munson. Committee assignments were made during the session and Hewitt gave a report on both adult and youth programs now in progress. A membership drive is currently underway and interested persons are urged to contact the Y Office at Watt and Pickaway Sts.

Former Girl Mental Patient Talked from Water Tower

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A distraught young woman, weak from lack of food and water and virtually unable to walk after spending 25 hours atop a water tower, was assisted down from her perch Monday night.

Sandra Sue Fitzwater, 23, a former mental patient who had threatened to jump from the 106-foot-high catwalk on the tower, consented to allow two men to take her down in the bucket of a crane.

Earlier Monday, Miss Fitzwater had told rescuers, "I'm going to stay here until I die. Nobody likes me and I have no place to stay. They're going to send me to the hospital again."

After police dispersed a huge crowd about 9 p. m., Miss Fitzwater told authorities about an hour later she was ready to come down. Unable to climb down a ladder on the tower, she was assisted down in the crane.

The bespectacled blonde, known as an excellent athlete, was taken to Wayne Hospital here, sunburned and exhausted, after spending all of Sunday night and all day Monday on the tower. She was wearing shorts and a sweatshirt, and the only substance she had was chewing gum offered by the Rev. Edward Winkler, one of those hoisted up in the crane to try and talk her into coming down.

Miss Fitzwater had a transistor radio during her stay on the tower and later a telephone was placed on the catwalk so she wouldn't have to shout in talking with authorities.

She had ignored nonstop pleas from several persons—relatives, friends, Dayton State Hospital officials, reporters—throughout the day to come down.

Ruth Voiles, an aide at the Dayton hospital, spent two hours in the crane talking to the girl Monday.

"Look at those idiots down there," Mrs. Voiles quoted the woman as saying. "They're looking for a show and I'm giving it to them."

Mrs. Voiles also told newsmen, "She told me she loved me and everything, but it was just no use. She feels that nobody cares for her since her grandfather died."

Miss Fitzwater's mother, Mary Arthur of Greenville, said her daughter had been distraught over the death of her stepgrandfather, Phil Martin.

Police said he shot himself last week.

Miss Fitzwater stayed in a rooming house here after her grandfather died. She had cared for him.

Extradition of Ray was also asked because he is wanted by Missouri to complete a prison term for armed robbery. While extradition on this charge would be almost automatic, the U.S.-British treaty specifies that a suspect can only be tried on the charges for which he has been specifically extradited. Therefore unless he is extradited for the murder of the Negro civil rights leader, he cannot be prosecuted on that charge in the United States.

Fire, Blasts

Hit Cincy Firm

CINCINNATI (AP) — Several explosions, followed by fire, raced through the Queen City Forging Co. in the eastern section of Cincinnati early today causing an estimated $200,000 damage.

No one was hurt in the explosions and blaze but a few families living nearby were evacuated.

No cause has been established yet for the explosions.

Twenty fire companies brought the blaze at the steel forging plant under control within about one hour. Most of the plant, except for an office section, was heavily damaged.

None of the plant's 75 employees was in the structure.

Committee assignments were made during the session and Hewitt gave a report on both adult and youth programs now in progress. A membership drive is currently underway and interested persons are urged to contact the Y Office at Watt and Pickaway Sts.

Former Girl Mental Patient Talked from Water Tower

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A distraught young woman, weak from lack of food and water and virtually unable to walk after spending 25 hours atop a water tower, was assisted down from her perch Monday night.

Sandra Sue Fitzwater, 23, a former mental patient who had threatened to jump from the 106-foot-high catwalk on the tower, consented to allow two men to take her down in the bucket of a crane.

Earlier Monday, Miss Fitzwater had told rescuers, "I'm going to stay here until I die. Nobody likes me and I have no place to stay. They're going to send me to the hospital again."

After police dispersed a huge crowd about 9 p. m., Miss Fitzwater told authorities about an hour later she was ready to come down. Unable to climb down a ladder on the tower, she was assisted down in the crane.

The bespectacled blonde, known as an excellent athlete, was taken to Wayne Hospital here, sunburned and exhausted, after spending all of Sunday night and all day Monday on the tower. She was wearing shorts and a sweatshirt, and the only substance she had was chewing gum offered by the Rev. Edward Winkler, one of those hoisted up in the crane to try and talk her into coming down.

Miss Fitzwater had a transistor radio during her stay on the tower and later a telephone was placed on the catwalk so she wouldn't have to shout in talking with authorities.

She had ignored nonstop pleas from several persons—relatives, friends, Dayton State Hospital officials, reporters—throughout the day to come down.

POSER WANTED—George Michael Gentile, approximately 65 years of age, has been placed on the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives." STAR GRANGE Star Grange met in regular session Tuesday evening in Monroe School auditorium with Worthy Master Harold Furniss presiding over the business session.

Mrs. Helen Hamme, read a letter of appreciation from the IFFE program for the contribution. Mr. and Mrs. John F. Dowler were present for the meeting and Mrs. Dowler judged the sewing and baking contests for the evening.

Joy Bidwell made a head scarf for the juvenile contest and was awarded first place. Dawn Bidwell made a head scarf and tote bag and was awarded first place for her entry.

In the baking contest, Mrs. Winifred Bidwell placed first, Mrs. Clark Dennis second and Mrs. Ernestine Dudson, third. In the juvenile contest Joy Bidwell placed first, Dawn Bidwell, second and Sonny Bidwell, third. Each received a token of appreciation for entering the contests.

The program under the direction of the Home Economics committee opened with the thought for the day by the chaplain, Mrs. Francis Furniss. Miss Patricia Schleich read, "A Graduate's Prayer," Mrs. Paul Dawson read, "My America." Mrs. Herman Porter conducted a quiz and also read "My Purpose."

The program closed with the group singing "Whispering Hope." Refreshments of strawberries and ice cream were served by the hostesses Mr. and Mrs. Herman Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reid, Bruce and Brenda and Mrs. Bertha Porter.

SIRHAN-CASTRO LINK — Jose Duarte, former major in Cuban boss Fidel Castro's army, tells reporters in Miami, Fla., that he attended a pro-Castro meeting in Los Angeles on May 21 at which Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, held in the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy, was present. He said he asked to speak in favor of the U.S. and that Sirhan called him a CIA employee, shouted obscenities, and said "what this country needs is another Castro."

Toy Gun Used To Foil Thugs

CINCINNATI (AP) — A clerk at a Cincinnati hotel, armed with a toy gun, frustrated the efforts of two would-be robbers Monday, but nearly got shot in the process.

Gerald McGreal, night clerk at the Kemper Lane Hotel, said he spotted two masked men approaching him, one carrying a revolver, and shouted, "I've got my gun too."

He then ducked behind the desk and one of the men responded by firing two shots, just over his head.

The two men fled without any money after the shots were fired.

Business Briefs

Lillian Cook and Margaret Ritchie of the local Production Credit Office attended a seminar sponsored by the eleven Production Credit Assn. of Ohio.

Theme of the seminar was sales and communications. It was held at Christopher Inn in Columbus Wednesday and Thursday. The meeting was attended by some 94 field office secretaries and bookkeepers of the seventy-three Production Credit Offices in Ohio. During the calendar year of 1967 these seventy-three offices disbursed more than $181 million in short and intermediate term credit to some twenty-thousand farmers in Ohio.

The Production Credit Associations are farmer-owned, farmer-operated cooperatives who secure their lending funds from the sale of short term bonds to the investing public.

Rash of Traffic Accidents Claims Lives of 8 Ohioans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A deadly period on Ohio's highways that brought 23 week-end deaths has shown no signs of ending. Among the many traffic deaths reported Monday were those of two youngsters hit by cars.

The latest victims:
Carl L. Jones, 37, New Vienna.
James Church, 28, Columbus.
Mamie White, 67, Warren.
Edward Babos, 23, Masury.
Thomas Ryan, 15, Vickery.
Ellice D. Hicks, 3, of near Batavia.
Rupert B. Perry, 68, Cincinnati.

Donald J. Malcom, 24 Middle-town.
Jones died Monday night in a car-truck collision on Ohio 3 near Wilmington.

Church was killed in a two-car collision Monday near Lancaster.

Mamie White died Sunday night of injuries suffered Friday in a one-car wreck near Otterville in Putnam County. She died in a Lima hospital.

Babos was one of the drivers Monday in a two-car crash in Hubbard Township, Trumbull County.

The Ryan boy and a companion were riding bicycles Monday when they were hit by a car near Vickery.

Clermont County police said the Hicks boy drove his tricycle onto the roadway into the path of a car Monday near his home.

Perry died Monday in a two-car accident in Cincinnati.

Malcom, an Ohio University student, was on a motorcycle that was struck by a truck Monday in Athens.

Gun Death Tally Started By Newsmen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Proponents of stricter controls over the nationwide traffic in firearms have focused public attention on the number of deaths — accidental and intentional — caused by gunfire in the United States.

"Guns are involved in more than 6,500 murders" each year in the nation, President Johnson said in appointing a commission on violence following the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Such an annual toll breaks down to 125 homicides a week. Many lives also are lost through suicides in which guns are used and through accidents involving firearms.

To study the extent of deaths by gunshot in the United States, The Associated Press is making a nationwide survey this week of homicides, suicides and accidental deaths involving firearms. The survey started at 12:01 a.m. Monday and will end at midnight Sunday, June 23.

Early in the second day of the count, eight homicides and one suicide had been reported.

Methodists Give More Money

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP)—Total membership of the 774 churches of the North-East Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church declined about one per cent last year, but per capita giving increased.

This was reported Monday at the opening session of the conference's 30th annual meeting.

The Rev. Harry J. Young of McConnelsville, the conference statistician, told the 1,200 delegates that the conference—one of Methodism's five largest—now has 273,959 members, down 3,434 from a year ago.

The conference treasurer, the Rev. Harold T. Wintermute of Akron, said per capita giving was up $1.17 to $86.61. Contributions in the conference totaled more than $18 million last year, a gain of $148,000 over the previous year, he reported.

The 17-year old New Holland lass is one of the four nominees representing the Federalist Party in today's primary election on the campus of Capital University.

Election winners will be inaugurated Wednesday evening during a program which will feature an address by Ohio Governor, James A. Rhodes.

National College Queen Named

PALM BEACH SHORES, Fla. (AP)—A pretty, 21-year-old coed from San Jose State College in California today ruled as National College Queen. She is the first Negro to win the 14-year-old pageant.

Valerie Laverne Dickerson, 5-foot-3 and 111 pounds, won the title and $10,000 in prizes Monday night in competition with 49 other girls representing U.S. colleges.

Miss Dickerson is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. William C. Dickerson of Riverside, Calif. "I feel my winning was a help to Negroes," she said. "I think it added a small bit in their fight for dignity. I suddenly became an extension of so many people."

Ohioans Killed

Poor People Leaders Disappear

WASHINGTON (AP)—The top leadership of the Poor People's Campaign were in seclusion today with aides insisting they do not know where the campaign command post shifted after vacating a Negro-owned motel.

While newsmen tried to locate the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the campaign, sponsoring Southern Christian Leadership Conference, demonstrators fanned out Monday to three government agencies had been rebuffed at all three.

A long-delayed mule train also arrived in the area in preparation for Wednesday's mass demonstration in support of the campaign.

Twenty-seven mules, four horses and 13 wagons that had started out from Marks, Miss.,

36 days ago were unloaded from a freight train in suburban Alexandria, Va., Monday night, after a day-long trip from Atlanta.

They are scheduled to participate in Solidarity Day ceremonies Wednesday.

About 150 campaigners were rebuffed at the Agriculture Department, their request to see Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman denied, aides said, because they had no appointment.

A group of Mexican-Americans who had an appointment with Secretary of State Dean Rusk on their claims to land under a treaty refused to meet with Undersecretary Nicholas Katzenbach when they learned Rusk had been hospitalized for tests.

A group of welfare mothers conducting their own hearing at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare protested when Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., did not appear to discuss limits on aid to dependent children.

Congressman Speaks at Atlanta Alumni Banquet

The annual banquet of the Atlanta Alumni Assn. was held Saturday evening June 8 in the Atlanta Community building.

President Wendell Hott called the banquet to order. Invocation was given by Robert Conway preceding the dinner. The tables were decorated in red and blue, the school colors, as were the programs. Flower arrangements adorned the tables.

Toastmaster for the evening was Ray Creighton. Honored during the evening were the classes of 1908, 1918, 1928, 1938, 1948 and 1958.

Toastmaster Creighton then introduced the main speaker, Congressman Chalmers P. Wylie. Rep. Wylie spoke about the new Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Bill, foreign aid, and gun control.

The business meeting was conducted by President Hott. He introduced the officers for the coming year: Forrest Morris, president; George Skinner, vice president; Joann Newton, secretary; Ruby Donohue, treasurer. The benediction was given by Rev. White.

Young Man Knew Kennedy And Sirhan; Tells Story

LA CANADA, Calif. (AP)—The odds have been figured at 400 billion to 1 that any one American knew both Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sirhan Sirhan, the obscure Arab immigrant accused of killing the senator.

But a young California social worker from La Canada is in that rare position. He is John McGrain, 22, who was a classmate of Sirhan in John Muir High School in Pasadena in 1962 and 1963.

McGrain met Kennedy, who was then attorney general, on a visit to Washington as president of the California Association of Student Councils.

He also met President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

"Robert Kennedy impressed me in a way that I'll never forget, as I'll never forget the way in which Sirhan impressed me," McGrain said.

Kennedy, he explained, epitomized youth and strength. Sirhan, on the other hand, "seemed fragile."

As for Kennedy, said McGrain, "you could feel that he had things to do, and that he knew what these things were and that he would do them. You could absolutely feel that he had the capacity to do good for our society."

McGrain, a graduate student in political theory at the University of Southern California, said he felt disturbed in high school by the class distinctions between students from well-to-do areas such as La Canada and those like Sirhan from more humble surroundings.

As president of the junior class council, McGrain said he initiated the contact with Sirhan.

"He was not the sort who would approach you," McGrain said. "He wouldn't begin a conversation, for example, with a stranger. But once contact was made he was very warm."

"He was a conscientious worker on these school projects. You could count on him when you gave him a job to do. I must say I liked him."

Arrest Pair At Protest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two people were arrested during a brief scuffle that broke out Monday when police and FBI agents surrounded an antidraft demonstration on Capitol Hill.

Eleven women pacifists were using a propane torch to burn what they said were 13 draft cards when a carload of FBI agents pulled up at the scene outside the Supreme Court building.

The agents seized a young man who was in the crowd of 50 and seconds later uniformed police leaped from a parked bus, breaking up the demonstration by prodding several people with their night sticks and shoving others.

The man arrested by the FBI was identified as Francis Thomas Femia, 20, of Holden, W. Va., wanted for failing to report for induction into military service last January.

Prince Charles Becomes Knight

LONDON (AP)—Charles, Prince of Wales, has become a Knight of the Garter under his mother's sword.

Queen Elizabeth II tapped her 19-year-old, lanky first-born son on the shoulder Monday, ordered him to tie the garter to his leg and presented him with a kingfisher blue riband to wear over his left shoulder and the Garter star.

Charles, heir to the throne, underwent the ceremony in St. George's Chapel in London with the dignity of a monarch-to-be.

Charles, standing firm, took the knight's oath to be courageous, "and having undertaken a just war thou mayest stand firm, valiantly fight, courageously and successfully conquer."

National College Queen Named

PALM BEACH SHORES, Fla. (AP)—A pretty, 21-year-old coed from San Jose State College in California today ruled as National College Queen. She is the first Negro to win the 14-year-old pageant.

Valerie Laverne Dickerson, 5-foot-3 and 111 pounds, won the title and $10,000 in prizes Monday night in competition with 49 other girls representing U.S. colleges.

Miss Dickerson is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. William C. Dickerson of Riverside, Calif. "I feel my winning was a help to Negroes," she said. "I think it added a small bit in their fight for dignity. I suddenly became an extension of so many people."

Ohioans Killed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Sgt. Henry Sanford Jr. of Parma, Ohio, and Marine Lance Cpl. Ronald Poole of Delaware, Ohio, have been killed in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department said Monday. Army Sgt. Robert Weber of Dover, Ohio, was changed from missing to dead.

Poor People Leaders Disappear

WASHINGTON (AP)—The top leadership of the Poor People's Campaign were in seclusion today with aides insisting they do not know where the campaign command post shifted after vacating a Negro-owned motel.

While newsmen tried to locate the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the campaign, sponsoring Southern Christian Leadership Conference, demonstrators fanned out Monday to three government agencies had been rebuffed at all three.

A long-delayed mule train also arrived in the area in preparation for Wednesday's mass demonstration in support of the campaign.

Twenty-seven mules, four horses and 13 wagons that had started out from Marks, Miss.,

36 days ago were unloaded from a freight train in suburban Alexandria, Va., Monday night, after a day-long trip from Atlanta.

They are scheduled to participate in Solidarity Day ceremonies Wednesday.

About 150 campaigners were rebuffed at the Agriculture Department, their request to see Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman denied, aides said, because they had no appointment.

A group of Mexican-Americans who had an appointment with Secretary of State Dean Rusk on their claims to land under a treaty refused to meet with Undersecretary Nicholas Katzenbach when they learned Rusk had been hospitalized for tests.

A group of welfare mothers conducting their own hearing at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare protested when Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., did not appear to discuss limits on aid to dependent children.

Congressman Speaks at Atlanta Alumni Banquet

The annual banquet of the Atlanta Alumni Assn. was held Saturday evening June 8 in the Atlanta Community building.

President Wendell Hott called the banquet to order. Invocation was given by Robert Conaway preceding the dinner. The tables were decorated in red and blue, the school colors, as were the programs. Flower arrangements adorned the tables.

Toastmaster for the evening was Ray Creighton, Honored during the evening were the classes of 1908, 1918, 1928, 1938, 1948 and 1958.

Toastmaster Creighton then introduced the main speaker, Congressman Chalmers P. Wylie. Rep. Wylie spoke about the new Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Bill, foreign aid, and gun control.

The business meeting was conducted by President Hott. He introduced the officers for the coming year: Forrest Morris, president; George Skinner, vice president; Joann Newton, secretary; Ruby Donohue, treasurer. The benediction was given by Rev. White.

Young Man Knew Kennedy And Sirhan; Tells Story

LA CANADA, Calif. (AP)—The odds have been figured at 400 billion to 1 that any one American knew both Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sirhan Sirhan, the obscure Arab immigrant accused of killing the senator.

But a young California social worker from La Canada is in that rare position. He is John McGrain, 22, who was a classmate of Sirhan in John Muir High School in Pasadena in 1962 and 1963.

McGrain met Kennedy, who was then attorney general, on a visit to Washington as president of the California Association of Student Councils.

He also met President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

"Robert Kennedy impressed me in a way that I'll never forget, as I'll never forget the way in which Sirhan impressed me," McGrain said.

Kennedy, he explained, epitomized youth and strength. Sirhan, on the other hand, "seemed fragile."

As for Kennedy, said McGrain, "you could feel that he had things to do, and that he knew what these things were and that he would do them. You could absolutely feel that he had the capacity to do good for our society."

McGrain, a graduate student in political theory at the University of Southern California, said he felt disturbed in high school by the class distinctions between students from well-to-do areas such as La Canada and those like Sirhan from more humble surroundings.

As president of the junior class council, McGrain said he initiated the contact with Sirhan.

"He was not the sort who would approach you," McGrain said. "He wouldn't begin a conversation, for example, with a stranger. But once contact was made he was very warm."

"He was a conscientious worker on these school projects. You could count on him when you gave him a job to do. I must say I liked him."

Arrest Pair At Protest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two people were arrested during a brief scuffle that broke out Monday when police and FBI agents surrounded an antidraft demonstration on Capitol Hill.

Eleven women pacifists were using a propane torch to burn what they said were 13 draft cards when a carload of FBI agents pulled up at the scene outside the Supreme Court building.

The agents seized a young man who was in the crowd of 50 and seconds later uniformed police leaped from a parked bus, breaking up the demonstration by prodding several people with their night sticks and shoving others.

The man arrested by the FBI was identified as Francis Thomas Femia, 20, of Holden, W. Va., wanted for failing to report for induction into military service last January.

Prince Charles Becomes Knight

LONDON (AP)—Charles, Prince of Wales, has become a Knight of the Garter under his mother's sword.

Queen Elizabeth II tapped her 19-year-old, lanky first-born son on the shoulder Monday, ordered him to tie the garter to his leg and presented him with a kingfisher blue ribbon to wear over his left shoulder and the Garter star.

Charles, heir to the throne, underwent the ceremony in St. George's Chapel in London with the dignity of a monarch-to-be.

Charles, standing firm, took the knight's oath to be courageous, "and having undertaken a just war thou mayest stand firm, valiantly fight, courageously and successfully conquer."

Smoking, Birth Control Subjects at AMA Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Using hypnosis to stop smoking may hurt more people than it helps, a psychiatrist warned today.

Dr. Sheldon B. Cohen of Atlanta told the annual convention of the American Medical Association, "longtime smokers often run into psychiatric trouble when they stop smoking."

He cited the case of a man who gave up smoking under hypnosis and a few weeks later

Senate Group Studies New Gun Control

Would Ban Rifles And Shotguns From U.S. Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — After more than a week of public debate sparked by the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, a Senate subcommittee plans to consider a new bill to ban the mail order sale of rifles and shotguns.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., said he hopes his subcommittee on juvenile delinquency could take some action today. Whatever it does will be subject to review by the parent Judiciary Committee at a meeting set for Wednesday.

Both meetings come before the Wednesday midnight deadline for President Johnson to sign, veto or ignore the omnibus crime control bill and its gun control section now on his desk.

If he takes no action on the measure, rushed through Senate and House within two days of the June 5 pistol attack on Kennedy, it will become law.

Johnson has criticized the gun control provision—which bans only the mail order sale of pistols—as too weak and has urged quick action on the bill before Dodd's subcommittee.

Sponsored by 28 senators and introduced last week, it would ban the sale of shoulder weapons through the mail and to juveniles and nonresidents of a state.

Dodd also has offered a bill providing compulsory federal registration of all firearms and prohibiting sale of ammunition to anyone unable to furnish proof that his firearm is registered.

The even stricter measure has been offered by Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md. It not only would require the registration of all firearms but a license for their purchase or possession.

The states would be given a chance to enact their own registration and licensing laws under Tydings' bill, but the proposed federal legislation would control in states that failed to act.

got drunk at a party and beat up his wife and his best friend.

"I had to suggest that he resume smoking while undergoing intensive psychiatric treatment," Cohen said.

The psychiatrist said a study of available scientific literature and 10 cases in his own practice had persuaded him "no one has yet demonstrated that hypnosis is generally indicated to help people stop smoking."

Of the 10 cases, Cohen said, four stopped smoking for as long as a few weeks but all eventually resumed smoking.

"There may be some cases in which hypnosis is helpful," he said, "but nobody knows enough about smoking yet to say that this or any other technique is a sure way to help the longtime smoker."

"Unless you have something better to give people as a tension-relieving device, perhaps it is better to leave them alone."

Cohen said all 10 of his cases had serious illnesses, aggravated by smoking. But taking cigarettes from them he said, appeared to present hazards greater than the obvious risk in continuation of smoking.

In another talk a doctor reported a new hormonal contraceptive given by injection once every three months.

The substance, commercially available but approved only for therapy, is medroxy-progesterone acetate—MDA, said Dr. Edward Tyler of the Family Planning Center of Los Angeles.

Tyler said there were no pregnancies among 216 women to whom he gave the drug over the past three years.

He said monthly injection of other hormonal drugs—progesterone and estrogen—was effective with 514 women.

Many women were willing to continue with the drugs despite such side effects as nervousness, bleeding irregularly and nausea, he said.

Tyler said neither method is likely to become readily available before considerable testing by the Food and Drug Administration.

Venezuela Holds Soviet Ocean Tug

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuelan warships seized the Soviet ocean-going tug Idonobon Gromovoy, reportedly crammed with electronic equipment, after an "energetic chase" in the South Caribbean, Defense Minister Ramon Florencio Gomez told newsmen Monday.

Gomez said the tug was taken inside Venezuela's 12-mile territorial limit Friday and escorted to Puerto Cabello, 60 miles west of Caracas.

He reported nothing "abnormal" was found during a search of the vessel.

The defense minister said the tug, towing a barge-like craft, was spotted by a patrol boat off Orchilla Island, 100 miles north-east of Caracas. When the Soviets refused to heed the patrol boat's orders to stop and tried to flee, other ships were summoned. They forced the tug to change course outside territorial waters, Gomez said.

The disposition of the vessel and its crew is up to President Raul Leoni, Gomez said.

Ft. Hayes Mess and Cook Both Face End of Line

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The mess hall at 104-year-old Ft. Hayes served its last meal Monday, and both the fort and mess sergeant Sam Leek prepared for retirement.

"That was my first duty station," said S. Sgt. Leek, looking out his mess hall window to another building at the old fort, where the Army is abandoning 66 of its 78 acres.

"That was the mess hall when I enlisted here in 1941," Leek added. "After my basic training here, I was stationed there as a cook."

Leek went from Ft. Hayes to North Africa with the first American troops landed there in World War II. He was 21 then. Now, 26 years and two wars later, he is back at Ft. Hayes, smoking a corn cob pipe and drinking some 15 cups of Army coffee a day.

Leek and most of the other regular Army troops in Ft. Hayes' small garrison are to be gone from the post by the end of the month. The fort will be turned over to a 27-man civilian maintenance force and five soldiers who will handle paperwork.

Leek and his wife now live in nearby Blacklick. He retires at the end of the year and has his choice of where he'll spend the rest of his Army time. He plans to stay in Blacklick after retirement.

Following the last breakfast Monday, Leek, his cooks and his kitchen police began cleaning up.

"Twenty-seven years," said S. Sgt. Sam Leek, last mess sergeant of Ft. Hayes. "God . . ."

Valedictorian Hits 'Stupid' Viet War

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — The valedictorian of Dartmouth College caused an uproar at graduation ceremonies Sunday when he called the Vietnam war a "colossal stupidity" and urged his fellow graduates to refuse to serve in Vietnam "when the call comes to you."

Loud applause, jeers and shouts of "Get out of here" greeted the address by James W. Newton, a magna cum laude graduate in psychology from Glendale, Ariz.

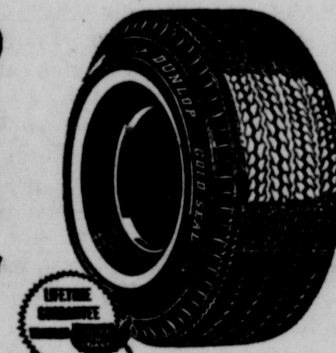

About 6,000 students, parents and alumni were present.

Countywide School Systems Urged by Essex

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Countywide school districts could provide quality education more economically than the present system of multidistricts, State School Supt. Martin W. Essex said Monday.

Essex told a legislative committee studying education administration that about 70 of the 88 counties might benefit from such a change. He said Metropolitan federations would be more suitable for the bigger counties.

The proposals, he said, were made by a Little Hoover Commission studying school administration reform. He said a report on commission recommendations would be completed next month for submission later to the legislative committee.

9th-Inning Error Costs Reds Game

ATLANTA (AP)—The Atlanta Braves capitalized on a ninth-inning error by Cincinnati third baseman Tony Perez to defeat the Reds 3-2 Monday night.

"I don't know what happened," Perez said after he bobbled a slow grounder by Felix Millan with two-out in the ninth, allowing the Braves their winning run. "It just popped out of my glove."

Felipe Alou, who got on with a double, raced home from second base with the unearned run which handed the Reds their third straight loss.

Pete Rose gave the Reds a 1-0 lead in the third inning with a single that scored Leo Cardenas.

But Hank Aaron tied it 1-1 with a base-empty homer in the fourth, his 12th of the season and the 493rd of his professional career. It placed him in a tie for eighth place with Lou Geh-

IOOF, First National Bank Blue Ribbon Cop Decisions

IOOF came back to nip Wards Market, 11-10 and Blue Ribbon blasted Savings Bank, 12-2, Monday in Little League Minor action.

First National stopped Rotary, 6-2, in another minor tilt that was a make up of an earlier game.

IOOF took a 9-3 lead into the last inning of their tilt. But Wards exploded and notched seven runs in the top of the inning for a 10-9 lead.

The Odd Fellows stayed in and collected two in the bottom of the last for the win. Rickey Ramsey struck out 14 batters and allowed only three hits on the IOOF mound.

D. WINKS pitched the distance for the Marketers, fanning seven and scattering 11 hits.

Winks tripled for the losers. Warren Yamrick, Mark Waites and H. Dearth doubled for IOOF and Ramsey collected a pair of two sackers.

Blue Ribbon just overpowered Savings Bank. Dairy manager Merrill Allen credited his infield — Larry Scott, Martin Gallagher, Herb Sturdell and Rick Hartinger — plus the catching and hitting of Tommie Starr and the pitching and hitting of Brent Mancini with earning the win.

Mancini held the Bankers to four hits while helping his team with a triple. Starr tripled and Scott doubled for the winners.

Henry Aaron Ties Lou Gehrig

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta slugger Henry Aaron moved up another notch in the ranks of all-time home run hitters Monday night, slamming his 493rd over the left field fence and helping Atlanta to a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati.

The homer put Aaron in a tie with the late Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees for eighth place in the major league home run derby. It also tied him with Eddie Mathews as the No. 1 Braves home run hitter in history.

Fink Tourney Set in Fink

FINK, Tex. (AP) — Officials of the Fink Invitation Golf Tournament looked for more finks today to make a foursome.

The tournament this weekend, launching National Fink Week, registered its first authentic Fink Monday.

David Fink, 22, of Houston, who has never played golf, said he will join the field of non-Finks at Tanglewood Hills Country Club near this North Texas community.

"I'm hoping to find enough Finks for a foursome," said Fink, a sports writer for the Houston Post.

The annual Fink celebration began several years ago when the term Fink became popular as a slang expression. About 125 persons visited the town during last year's festivities.

Fading Orioles Lose, 3-2, to Oakland

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sal Bando suddenly has found Baltimore pitching to be a soft touch and the Oakland Athletics are driving the battered Orioles to ground.

Bando, who drilled three hits and drove in three runs as Oakland completed a doubleheader sweep over Baltimore Sunday, beat the fading Orioles 3-2 Monday night with a two-out run-scoring single in the ninth inning.

The loss, fifth in a row for the second-place Orioles, dropped them eight games behind front-running Detroit—closer to the bottom of the American League than the top.

The A's, who have beaten Baltimore six times in their last seven meetings, moved into a fifth-place tie with Boston—9½ games off the pace.

Jim Fregosi's 12th-inning homer gave California a 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees, the Chicago White Sox nipped Cleveland 2-1 on a two-run pinch triple by rookie Bill Voss and Minnesota downed Washington 4-1 behind southpaw Jim Kaat in other AL games. The Tigers and Red Sox were idle.

Bando drove in Oakland's first run with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and scored in the sixth after poking a one-out single. Right-hander John "Blue Moon" Odom protected the 2-0 edge until the eighth, when the Orioles tied it on Don Buford's single. Fred Valentine's triple and Boog Powell's single off reliever Paul Lindblad.

With two out in the ninth, John Donaldson clipped Moe Drabowsky for a single. Rick Monday walked and Bando broke the deadlock with a single to right.

The husky third baseman, whose batting average dipped to .238 after an 0-for-4 collar in the first game of Sunday's twin bill, has since collected four singles and a double in eight trips to the plate for a .250 season mark.

Fregosi led off the 12th with a homer off New York reliever Joe Verbanic, ending the Yankees' three-game winning string and overshadowing a brilliant pitching performance by the losers' Stan Bahnsen.

Bahnsen held the Angels hitless until Bobby Knoop's double and a single by recently acquired Vic Davalillo tied the game 1-1 in the sixth, and allowed only one more hit before leaving for a pinch hitter in the top of the 12th.

The Yankees pushed over a run in the sixth after filling the bases with none out against Jim McGlothlin, but shoddy baserunning cost them a bigger inning. McGlothlin worked out of another bases-loaded jam in the ninth before giving way to winner Minnie Rojas.

Voss, batting .140 going into the White Sox' game against Cleveland at Milwaukee, broke up a scoreless duel in the seventh inning with his two-run triple off Steve Hargan.

Winner Jack Fisher blanked the Indians until the ninth, when pinch hitter Willie Smith double home an unearned run before reliever Bob Locker nailed the victory.

The setback ran Cleveland's losing streak to seven games, but still left the Indians in third place—8½ games out.

Kaat scattered eight hits and struck out seven as the Twins reeled off their fourth straight victory and extended Washington's winless streak to six games. Frank Quilici banged out a triple and double, scored one run and drove in another before Bob Allison's two-run homer in the eighth capped Minnesota's attack.

THE NAME IS T-R-E-V-I-N-O!—And most everyone knows he's the new U.S. Open golf champion, and the first man in U.S. Open history to put together four sub-par rounds. Trevino, a 28-year-old Texan who first gained attention when he finished fifth in the 1967 U.S. Open, picked up $30,000 and his 275 tied Jack Nicklaus for the all-time Open low mark.

Trevino Hero to Down-to-Earth People

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a pinch of Hagen, Sarazen, Hogan and even Palmer in El Torito, brash Lee Trevino, the new Open golf champion of the United States.

El Torito is Spanish for "Little Bull." That's the nickname tacked on the colorful Mexican-American by Hord Hardin, president of the U.S. Golf Association.

Trevino is hardly cut of the blue-jacket, brass-button, striped-tie cloth. Like Hagen, Sarazen and Hogan, he came from a humble—in his case, even poor—background. He is the reincarnation of a lost age. He is the idol of the peasants.

Let the country club set have their college-educated Nicklaus, Palmers and Fleckmans. The public course hackers, the caddies, the bartenders, the hustlers—they have their man in Trevino.

"Earthy" is the word for El Torito.

His skin is the color of polished copper. Thick, raven-black hair frames his pleasant pugilist's face. There's a Marine tattoo on his left shoulder, the name of his first love, "Ann," on his arm, concealed by a swab of adhesive tape.

He was an eighth-grade dropout. He never saw his father. He was reared by his grandfather, a Dallas grave digger. He shined shoes, caddied, hustled for nickels and dimes, worked for a par-three course and became a $30-a-week assistant in El Paso, Tex.

That was just a year ago. Now he's rich, and growing richer. And golf is abuzz with his quips and stories, half-fact and half-fiction, and in love with his ability to move a golf ball.

"I think I'll buy the Alamo and give it back to Mexico," he says.

Wives? I've had two—I get rid of them when they reach 21." He's kidding. Claudia is No. 2. She's half the team.

"I don't want to be known as the Open champion who took out a wedge and played it safe."

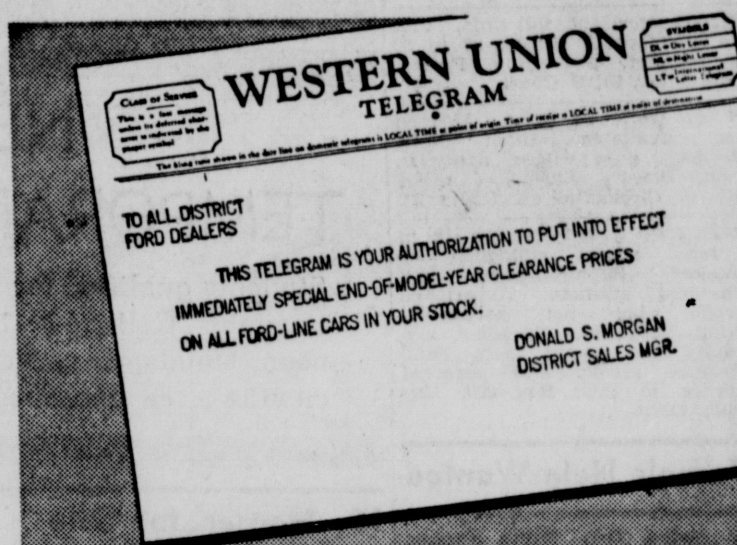

"I started by hitting apples with a broomstick."

Not since the days of The Hail, has the golf world been titillated by wise-cracks of such arrogance.

9th-Inning Error Costs Reds Game

ATLANTA (AP)—The Atlanta Braves capitalized on a ninth-inning error by Cincinnati third baseman Tony Perez to defeat the Reds 3-2 Monday night.

"I don't know what happened," Perez said after he bobbled a slow grounder by Felix Millan with two-out in the ninth, allowing the Braves their winning run. "It just popped out of my glove."

Felipe Alou, who got on with a double, raced home from second base with the unearned run which handed the Reds their third straight loss.

Pete Rose gave the Reds a 1-0 lead in the third inning with a single that scored Leo Cardenas.

But Hank Aaron tied it 1-1 with a base-empty homer in the fourth, his 12th of the season and the 493rd of his professional career. It placed him in a tie for eighth place with Lou Gehrig on the all-time homer list. Cincinnati went ahead 2-1 in the fifth when starter Jim Maloney sugged his first homer of the season. But the Braves got it back in their half of the inning on three singles.

Pat Jarvis, who went the distance for the Braves, gave up six hits and picked up his seventh victory of the season in 11 decisions.

Ted Abernathy, who went in for Cincinnati with one out in the eighth, was tagged for the loss. He is 1-1 for the season.

Fleet-footed Alou said minutes after scoring the winning run: "I saw the ball get away from Perez out of the corner of my eye and I just kept on running."

Reds' Maenger Dave Bristol rejoined his club Monday night following a week's hospitalization and recuperation after tests to determine the cause of a persistent cough.

Rock Davis pitched Bingman Drugs to an 8-6 win over The Herald Hawks and BPO Elks stopped American Legion, 7-3, Monday in the major division of the Little League.

Phil Roll and Tim Strawser split chores for the Hawks, walking five, fanning five and scattering 10 safeties.

Tim Brown, Davis and Robin Martin doubled for the winners and Robin Ott and Jeff See doubled for the losers.

RANDY Thomas had a shut out going for five innings before allowing three scores in the bottom of the last in the Elks-Legion tilt. The Elk hurler walked three, fanned six and scattered only two hits on the way to the win.

Bill Massie worked into the fourth inning for the Legion, before being pulled in favor of Mike Diltz, who finished. Together they walked four, fanned three and allowed seven hits.

Kevin Wood homered for the winners. Kris Kline, Mark Hoffman and Kevin Smith doubled. Mike Diltz tripled for American Legion.

Drivers Vie For Rich Atomic Purse

CHILLICOTHE, — A star-packed bunch of outstanding drivers from the tri-state area is expected Friday night to compete with the local standouts for the richest prize ever offered at Atomic Speedway.

A top award of $1,000 will be waiting for the winner of the 150-lap non-stop feature for the 20 fastest cars. The total purse has been boosted to $3,350 to bring out the finest of the super-modified drivers for the third annual running of the Atomic 100.

Local and visiting drivers split the two previous runnings of the Atomic 100, Harold McGilton of Fremont last year and Sam Erwin of Portsmouth. The Atomic 100 was the outgrowth of the 10th anniversary race in 1965 won by Bobby Morgan of Chillicothe.

The racing program will include at least three heat races and a consi.

The third-mile clay high-banked track is on Blaine Highway, 12 miles south of Chillicothe and west of route 23 at Alma.

Racing also is scheduled as usual on Saturday night either a rain date for the Atomic 100 or a championship exclusively for hobby stocks.

Tribe Loses 7th Straight To .140 White Sox 'Slugger'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Manager Eddie Stanky could afford to scoff at the averages. His Chicago White Sox had just sent the Cleveland Indians down to a seventh straight defeat on a pinch triple by a .140 hitter.

"Averages mean nothing in this day and age," said Stanky, who sent rookie Bill Voss, .140 average and all, to the plate in place of Jerry McNertney in the seventh inning Monday night.

Voss came through with a booming triple that drove in two runs and gave the White Sox a 2-1 victory over the reeling Tribe.

The game, the third of the regular season for Chicago at Milwaukee, drew 28,081 fans — the largest of the "home" season for the Sox.

McNertney was batting .205, going into the game, which coincided exactly with the White Sox team average.

"Voss won a ball game for us over in New York," Stanky said in explaining why he used the rookie in the one-out situation against right-hander Steve Hargan. "With the bases loaded, he got a big hit."

Voss, brought up from Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League in late April, broke up a scoreless duel between Hargan and the veteran Jack Fisher.

The rookie, who admitted to nervousness over his first full-time exposure in the major leagues, said he recently began choking up on the bat handle. After Hargan got two strikes on him, Voss said he moved his hands up another inch.

The hit, he said, should help his confidence. "It gets you over the nervousness," he said.

The game, the third of the regular season for Chicago at Milwaukee, drew 28,081 fans — the largest of the "home" season for the Sox.

McNertney was batting .205, going into the game, which coincided exactly with the White Sox team average.

"Voss won a ball game for us over in New York," Stanky said in explaining why he used the rookie in the one-out situation against right-hander Steve Hargan. "With the bases loaded, he got a big hit."

Voss, brought up from Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League in late April, broke up a scoreless duel between Hargan and the veteran Jack Fisher.

The rookie, who admitted to nervousness over his first full-time exposure in the major leagues, said he recently began choking up on the bat handle. After Hargan got two strikes on him, Voss said he moved his hands up another inch.

Scioto Results, Pirates Shove Astros to Cellar Entries

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

What kind of host is it who locks his guests in the cellar?

The Houston Astros, who obviously overstayed their visit to Pittsburgh, have some idea today after the Pirates slammed the basement door on them.

The Pirates, stuck in the National League cellar themselves last Thursday, completed a five-game sweep of the Astros with a 4-3 victory Monday night that shoved Houston deep into last place.

Pittsburgh, tied for eighth, has won six straight.

The Atlanta Braves also took a step up the stairs, moving into second place with a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati in the only other game played.

Los Angeles was rained out at Philadelphia.

The Pirates, the biggest disappointment in the league this season, started their series in Forbes Field against Houston only one game ahead of the Astros after climbing out of the cellar with a victory over San Francisco last Thursday. They kept Houston in the dark by outscoring them 34-8 in the five games, extending the Astros' losing string to six.

Willie Stargell supplied a big shove Monday night by slamming his 11th homer in the fifth inning to break a 3-3 deadlock. Reliever Roy Face gave the final push, striking out Jimmy Wynn with two on and two out in the ninth.

Others who joined in the attack on the visitors included Matty Alou, who staked Pittsburgh to a 3-0 lead with a bases-clearing double in the first inning, and Al McBean, who held off the Astros until Face arrived.

McBean raised his record to 6-5, beating Dave Giusti, 4-8, who bled in Houston's tying two runs in the fourth.

The victory, putting Pitts-

Tribe Loses 7th Straight To .140 White Sox 'Slugger'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Manager Eddie Stanky could afford to scoff at the averages. His Chicago White Sox had just sent the Cleveland Indians down to a seventh straight defeat on a pinch triple by a .140 hitter.

"Averages mean nothing in this day and age," said Stanky, who sent rookie Bill Voss, .140 average and all, to the plate in place of Jerry McNertney in the seventh inning Monday night.

Eye Stadium In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—A three-month study is under way to gather details on a proposed 65,000 domed stadium to handle all major sports in Cleveland.

Estimated cost of the stadium without the dome is $26 million and $45 million to $50 million with the dome.

A working model of the stadium was shown Monday by Charles Luckman, New York architect who designed the new Madison Square Garden in New York and the Forum in Los Angeles.

The Ogden Corp. of New York City built the working model and Luckman said the firm is "prepared to finance it entirely or if it went to a public bond arrangement we would be willing to buy up the bonds."

Cleveland, Cuyahoga County and the state agreed to share the cost ($40,000 each) to make the $120,000 survey.

The survey will find a site, decide on financing and the physical makeup of the stadium, along with setting a target date for construction. Gov. James A. Rhodes attended the model presentation.

Luckman said it would take two years to build the complex, which would be used by the Cleveland Indians, Cleveland Browns, Cleveland Barons and Cleveland Stokers.

Trans-Atlantic Yacht Breaks Up

LONDON (AP) — A French yacht competing in the Observer solo trans-Atlantic race is breaking up 600 miles west of Ireland, the British Ministry of Defense said today.

Air rescue operations have been started.

The boat, Yaksha, a 50-foot trimaran was being sailed by Frenchman J. De Kat.

The Ministry said its only word was that the ship was "abandoning ship."

Olympic Track Finals Approach

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—More than 700 athletes get their last chance to stay in the running for a U. S. Olympic track team spot Thursday and Friday at the National AAU championships.

The top six American finishers in each of 19 events—a total of 108—will go to the final tryouts the following weekend in Los Angeles. They will compete with more than 160 others already qualified through the NCAA, NAIA and interservice eliminations.

Scioto Results, Pirates Shove Astros to Cellar

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
What kind of host is it who locks his guests in the cellar?

The Houston Astros, who obviously overstayed their visit to Pittsburgh, have some idea today after the Pirates slammed the basement door on them.

The Pirates, stuck in the National League cellar themselves last Thursday, completed a five-game sweep of the Astros with a 4-3 victory Monday night that shoved Houston deep into last place.

Pittsburgh, tied for eighth, has won six straight.

The Atlanta Braves also took a step up the stairs, moving into second place with a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati in the only other game played.

Los Angeles was rained out at Philadelphia.

The Pirates, the biggest disappointment in the league this season, started their series in Forbes Field against Houston only one game ahead of the Astros after climbing out of the cellar with a victory over San Francisco last Thursday. They kept Houston in the dark by outscoring them 34-8 in the five games, extending the Astros' losing string to six.

Willie Stargell supplied a big shove Monday night by slamming his 11th homer in the fifth inning to break a 3-3 deadlock. Reliever Roy Face gave the final push, striking out Jimmy Wynn with two on and two out in the ninth.

Others who joined in the attack on the visitors included Matty Alou, who staked Pittsburgh to a 3-0 lead with a bases-clearing double in the first inning, and Al McBean, who held off the Astros until Face arrived.

McBean raised his record to 6-5, beating Dave Giusti, 4-8, who singled in Houston's tying two runs in the fourth.

Mud Hens Now Only Half Game Behind Columbus

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Toledo's pitching staff endured hot Monday night and the Mud Hens moved to within a half game of first place Columbus in the International League.

Jack DiLauro's five-hitter gave Toledo a 1-0 victory in the first game of a doubleheader with Jacksonville and Jim Rooker went the route for his eighth win in a 10-inning 3-2 victory in the nightcap. Columbus held its lead by pounding Syracuse 13-8.

In other Monday night games, Louisville blanked Rochester 7-0 and Richmond beat Buffalo 4-2.

Toledo's only run in the first game was knocked in by Bob Christian's third inning single. Mike Derrick's 10th inning single settled the second game. The fine pitching performances came on the heels of Dick Radatz' one-hitter Sunday.

The Jets led Syracuse 13-1 at one point Monday night and they totaled 16 hits for the game. Rookie Ken Larson was the winning pitcher.

All-Star Baseball Series Scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The annual East-West High School All-Star baseball series will be played this weekend at Jet Stadium.

Some 56 players will participate in the three-game set which opens with a night game Saturday. A doubleheader Sunday starts at 1:30 p. m.

The East is coached by Scott Griesheimer of Chillicothe and Pepper Demont of Niles. The Westerners are coached by Fred Nocera of Mifflin, Jim Cordiak of Toledo Central Catholic and Chuck Maloney of Columbus Marion-Franklin.

Beban Doubts Instant Success
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gary Beban, UCLA's All-American quarterback and 1967 Heisman Trophy winner, doesn't expect to be an instant success in pro football.

"I think a rookie has to have an apprenticeship, like in any other business," Beban said Monday as he signed a no-cut contract with the Washington Redskins of the National Football League.

The homer by Aaron, his 12th of the season, was the 493rd of his career, tying him with Lou Gehrig for eighth place on the all-time list.

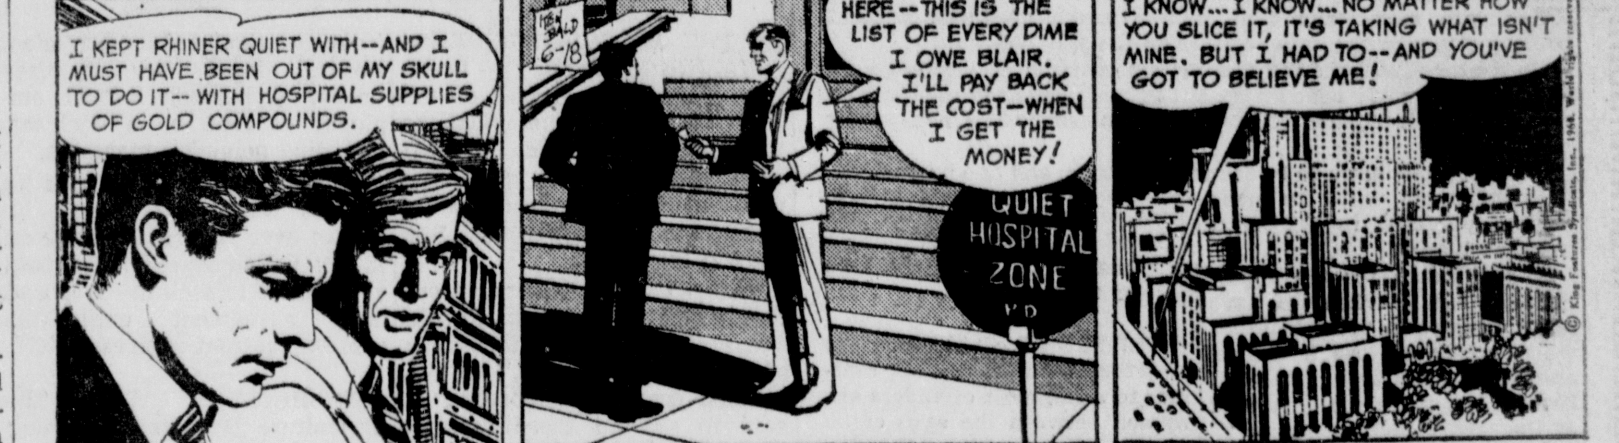

Pat Jarvis, 7-4, yielded six hits for the Braves' third straight victory. Cincinnati, dropping into a tie with the Pirates, lost for the third time in a row.

Hank Aaron of the Braves and Reds' starter Jim Maloney traded earlier home runs and Millan and Pete Rose of Cincinnati singled in the other runs.

British Women Learn Shoplifting

A typical British supermarket.

By JOE WILSON

Central Press Association Correspondent

LONDON—British women are making the legendary Ali Baba and his Forty Thieves look like a group of Cub Scouts on an annual outing. Last year shoplifting females walked out of retail stores with more than $168 million worth of goods without bothering to ring the cash register on the way out.

Food stores account for the largest amount of shrinkage, as shoplifting is coyly called here. Still most stores are reluctant to reveal accurate figures for fear of increasing their non-paying business.

Supermarkets seem to be the softest touch, and one huge chain, it is estimated, loses as much as two per cent to the light-fingered ladies.

A spokesman for the supermarkets said, "When we have large displays to promote sales, we calculate to lose a certain amount through theft. We don't like it, but it's actually a part of the cost of doing business."

GORDON PHILLIPS, general manager of a detective firm, said, "One of the things that makes it difficult to spot a shoplifter is that about 95 per cent of them are what we call amateurs. They don't steal to resell but for their own use."

"Consequently," he continued, "they aren't on the police record so we have to try and watch everyone. Really, it's much easier to catch a professional. We know who to look for. Among the amateurs we've caught have been a clergyman, a high-grade civil servant and even a lady of title."

GAO Says Army Was Right In Awarding Rifle Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office rejected today challenges to the legality of two new Army contracts for production of M16 rifles.

In a report to a special House subcommittee the GAO said the Army could legally ignore price in deciding which of four firms should receive the contracts.

Last April 19, the Army awarded two-year contracts for 240,000 rifles each to Hydratic Division of General Motors, Ypsilanti, Mich., and to Harrington and Richardson Co., of Worcester, Mass.

The GM contract had a ceiling price of $56 million. Ceiling price on the Harrington and Richardson contract was $42 million.

The Army's action was challenged after it was learned two other firms that sought the contracts—Maremont Co. of Saco, Maine, and Cadillac Gage of Warren, Mich.—were prepared to supply the rifles for ceiling prices of about $37 million.

The GAO said the Army told the four firms that "as a result of increased urgency to supply the maximum number of rifles at the earliest possible date with minimum risks of production interruption, the object of this procurement is changed to select those two sources which will afford to the government the highest degree of confidence in their ability in meeting and exceeding the accelerated schedule . . ."

The Army also told the firms not to submit price data until asked for it.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Joseph A. Beirne of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America (CWA) says he will seek an agreement with the Bell Telephone System to require all employees to pay dues to the union.

"When CWA members go out on the picket line to win a package that amounts to thousands of dollars for a person," he told a union convention Monday, "I hate to see all those benefits going to a free loader."

By "free loader" he meant nonunion members who receive benefits negotiated by the union. Federal labor law requires unions to bargain for all employees covered by a contract, including nonunion members.

Beirne's union, which won its biggest wage and benefit increase over last month after an 18-day nationwide strike, would not be able to seek the proposed dues agreement until the present contract expires in 1971.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, acting under the new Wholesome Meat Act of 1967, has designated 20 processing plants as "endangering public health."

The department said Monday four of the plants—in Illinois, Michigan, Connecticut and Delaware—had been closed by state officials and fifth, in Nevada, was closed temporarily for a clean up.

Corrective action has been started in the other 15 plants to remedy the federal charges, the department said. It did not disclose the names of the companies involved or the specific location of the plants.

Reasons cited for the "endangering public health" designation included lack of sanitation, unsanitary handling of products, lack of insect and vermin control and improper control of inedible, diseased and condemned carcasses.

Capital Footnote

The Agriculture Department says a survey in six major cities shows little variation in supermarket chains' food prices between high- and low-income neighborhoods. The survey did not list the cities but a source identified them as Philadelphia, San Francisco, Denver, Detroit, Chicago and Dallas.

Stock Market Stages Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—After continuing a three-day decline briefly today, the stock market rallied and was moderately higher early in the afternoon.

More than reversing an early ratio to the downside, about 150 more issues rose then fell on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .91 at 904.36.

No particular news was linked with the reversal of the recent slide.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 340.3, with industrials off .3, rails up .6, and utilities up 1.3.

Stock exchanges will be closed Wednesday in the second of a series of one-day-a-week shutdowns to enable brokerage firms to catch up with the paper-work logjam.

Prices rallied on the American Stock Exchange.

Resurrection City Plagued By Trouble, Lack of Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just a little more than five weeks ago, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy drove a symbolic stake into a grassy mall to mark the beginning of his campaign to "end poverty in this nation of plenty."

That original spot has long since been obscured by sticky mud and the trappings of Resurrection City, just as the original goals have been somewhat obscured by the enormous problems developed in running the campaign.

Today, on the eve of a big march he had planned to use as a demonstration of national support, the Poor People's Campaign seems as far from reaching its ambitious goal as when it started.

Despite a generally sympathetic reception from government agencies, the hundreds of pages of detailed answers they gave to campaign demands added up to few real concessions.

And despite Abernathy's promise to "rain plague after plague on the pharaohs of this nation," campaign leaders have themselves been visited with plague after unexpected plague, leaving them little time to devote to their original objectives.

While Southern Christian Leadership Conference staff members argue over what the campaign has become, most agree it isn't what they started out to make it.

"We've had a little trouble," conceded Hosea Williams, director of nonviolent demonstrations, last week.

Congress was the announced focal point, but almost all of the demonstrations so far have focused on government agencies.

Both Dr. Martin Luther King

Jr. before his April 4 assassination, and Abernathy, his successor, promised nonviolent civil disobedience that would jail thousands.

But despite repeated public pronouncements at rallies that the day for mass arrests was close at hand, no more than two dozen participants have been jailed.

Grady Hatton Given the Ax

NEW YORK (AP) — The Houston Astros fired manager Grady Hatton today and immediately replaced him with batting coach Harry Walker.

Hatton is the second National League manager to be fired in the past four days. The Philadelphia Phillies let Gene Mauch go last Saturday and named Bob Skinner to replace him.

Hatton was in his third season as the Astro manager. In his first season, 1966, the Astros were the surprise of the league for the first half of the year but injuries crippled them and they dropped to eighth place.

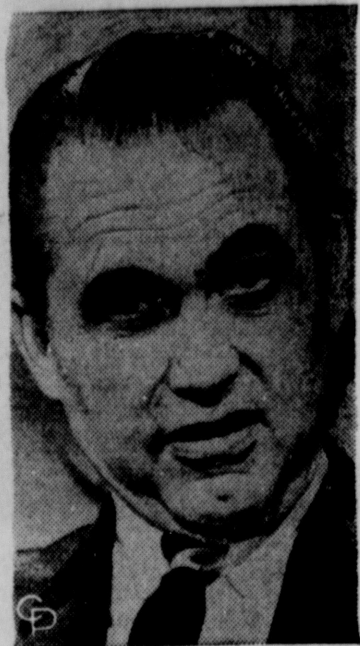

Shopping Center Set in Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Officials of Tiedtke's Department Store in Toledo announced plans Tuesday for a multi-million dollar shopping center to be opened in the northwest part of the city next spring.

Work on the enclosed mall-type center is to start next month, if a Toledo area building trades strike is settled by then. Tiedtke board chairman, Marvin Kobacker, declined to give an exact cost figure.

Resurrection City was intended to be a kind of "model shantytown," a city of tolerance and love that would serve as home for the 3,000 "basic" Washington officialdom.

But the wettest spring in decades has brought almost daily downpours, driving more than two-thirds of the 3,000 who were once in the nation's capital to seek shelter with friendly families, or else return home.

"GUN LAWS . . . GOOD"—In Washington, former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, running for president as an independent, says stronger gun legislation is not needed because "gun laws now are good if enforced. I am against the movement to take guns out of the hands of law abiding citizens. Then no one would have guns except criminals."

LONDON—British women are making the legendary Ali Baba and his Forty Thieves look like a group of Cub Scouts on an annual outing. Last year shoplifting females walked out of retail stores with more than $168 million worth of goods without bothering to ring the cash register on the way out.

Food stores account for the largest amount of shrinkage, as shoplifting is coyly called here. Still most stores are reluctant to reveal accurate figures for fear of increasing their non-paying business.

While there are all classes of thieves, most, apparently steal for status. Caviar and smoked salmon are much more in demand than a can of tuna fish or tomatoes.

ALTHOUGH children are sometimes trained by their families to steal, most offenders are women between the ages of 30 and 70. The record for the oldest accused shoplifter is held by a 91-year-old spinster, recently sent to Holloway Prison to await trial on four charges of taking but not paying.

Women may be in the majority at filching food and clothes, but a clerk at Foyle's, one of London's largest book stores, said, "Here it's a man's world. Women almost never take books without paying for them."

Whether it's books, food or clothes, almost every person arrested recently for shoplifting has had more than enough to pay for what he has taken.

In the affluent world of today, greed seems to have replaced need as the incentive to steal.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

Skies were clear over Ohio Monday night but dense fog formed over many sections especially in the eastern and southeastern parts of the state. Early morning temperatures were in the 40s at daybreak in many counties in northern Ohio. Elsewhere, temperature ranged through the 50s to near 60 in the extreme southwest.

An area of high pressure centered this morning over western Pennsylvania will dominate the weather over Ohio today with sunshine and pleasantly mild temperatures. Low pressure developing over the northern plains will spread cloudiness back into Ohio tonight with showers moving into the northwestern counties by daybreak and over the rest of the state Wednesday.

FORECASTS

NORTHWEST OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and not as cool tonight with chance of a few showers late tonight, lows in upper 50s. Considerable cloudiness and a little warmer with scattered showers or thundershowers Wednesday.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and not as cool tonight, lows in lower 60s. Considerable cloudiness and a little warmer with scattered showers or thundershowers Wednesday.

SOUTHEAST, EAST CEN-

TRAL OHIO—Mostly fair and not as cool tonight, lows in upper 50s. Considerable cloudiness and a little warmer with scattered showers and thundershowers Wednesday.

CENTRAL OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and not quite as cool tonight, lows in upper 50s. Considerable cloudiness and a little warmer with scattered showers and thundershowers Wednesday.

OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and not quite as cool tonight with showers northwest late tonight. Lows tonight low 60s southwest and in 50s elsewhere. Considerable cloudiness with scattered showers and thundershowers and a little warmer most sections Wednesday.

The Amazon's 3,900-mile length is exceeded by the Nile's 4,145 miles. But the area drained by the Amazon — some 2,388,000 square miles from the Andean highlands of Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador and Columbia to the Atlantic Ocean — is nearly twice that of any other river.

GAO Says Army Was Right In Awarding Rifle Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office rejected today challenges to the legality of two new Army contracts for production of M16 rifles.

In a report to a special House subcommittee the GAO said the Army could legally ignore price in deciding which of four firms should receive the contracts.

Last April 19, the Army awarded two-year contracts for 240,000 rifles each to Hydratic Division of General Motors, Ypsilanti, Mich., and to Harrington and Richardson Co., of Worcester, Mass.

The GM contract had a ceiling price of $56 million. Ceiling price on the Harrington and Richardson contract was $42 million.

The Army's action was challenged after it was learned two other firms that sought the contracts—Maremont Co. of Saco, Maine, and Cadillac Gage of Warren, Mich.—were prepared to supply the rifles for ceiling prices of about $37 million.

The GAO said the Army told the four firms that "as a result of increased urgency to supply the maximum number of rifles at the earliest possible date with minimum risks of production interruption, the object of this procurement is changed to select those two sources which will afford to the government the highest degree of confidence in their ability in meeting and exceeding the accelerated schedule . . ."

The Army also told the firms not to submit price data until asked for it.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Joseph A. Beirne of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America (CWA) says he will seek an agreement with the Bell Telephone System to require all employees to pay dues to the union.

"When CWA members go out on the picket line to win a package that amounts to thousands of dollars for a person," he told a union convention Monday, "I hate to see all those benefits going to a free loader."

By "free loader" he meant nonunion members who receive benefits negotiated by the union. Federal labor law requires unions to bargain for all employees covered by a contract, including nonunion members.

Beirne's union, which won its biggest wage and benefit increase over last month after an 18-day nationwide strike, would not be able to seek the proposed dues agreement until the present contract expires in 1971.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, acting under the new Wholesome Meat Act of 1967, has designated 20 processing plants as "endangering public health."

The department said Monday four of the plants—in Illinois, Michigan, Connecticut and Delaware—had been closed by state officials and fifth, in Nevada, was closed temporarily for a clean up.

Corrective action has been started in the other 15 plants to remedy the federal charges, the department said. It did not disclose the names of the companies involved or the specific location of the plants.

Reasons cited for the "endangering public health" designation included lack of sanitation, unsanitary handling of products, lack of insect and vermin control and improper control of inedible, diseased and condemned carcasses.

Capital Footnote

The Agriculture Department says a survey in six major cities shows little variation in supermarket chains' food prices between high- and low-income neighborhoods. The survey did not list the cities but a source identified them as Philadelphia, San Francisco, Denver, Detroit, Chicago and Dallas.

Stock Market Stages Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—After continuing a three-day decline briefly today, the stock market rallied and was moderately higher early in the afternoon.

More than reversing an early ratio to the downside, about 150 more issues rose then fell on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .91 at 904.36.

No particular news was linked with the reversal of the recent slide.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 340.3, with industrials off .3, rails up .6, and utilities up 1.3.

Stock exchanges will be closed Wednesday in the second of a series of one-day-a-week shutdowns to enable brokerage firms to catch up with the paper-work logjam.

Prices rallied on the American Stock Exchange.

Resurrection City Plagued By Trouble, Lack of Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just a little more than five weeks ago, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy drove a symbolic stake into a grassy mall to mark the beginning of his campaign to "end poverty in this nation of plenty."

That original spot has long since been obscured by sticky mud and the trappings of Resurrection City, just as the original goals have been somewhat obscured by the enormous problems developed in running the campaign.

Today, on the eve of a big march he had planned to use as a demonstration of national support, the Poor People's Campaign seems as far from reaching its ambitious goal as when it started.

Despite a generally sympathetic reception from government agencies, the hundreds of pages of detailed answers they gave to campaign demands added up to few real concessions.

And despite Abernathy's promise to "rain plague after plague on the pharaohs of this nation," campaign leaders have themselves been visited with plague after unexpected plague, leaving them little time to devote to their original objectives.

While Southern Christian Leadership Conference staff members argue over what the campaign has become, most agree it isn't what they started out to make it.

"We've had a little trouble," conceded Hosea Williams, director of nonviolent demonstrations, last week.

Congress was the announced focal point, but almost all of the demonstrations so far have focused on government agencies.

Both Dr. Martin Luther King

Jr. before his April 4 assassination, and Abernathy, his successor, promised nonviolent civil disobedience that would jail thousands.

But despite repeated public pronouncements at rallies that the day for mass arrests was close at hand, no more than two dozen participants have been jailed.

Grady Hatton

Given the Ax

NEW YORK (AP) — The Houston Astros fired manager Grady Hatton today and immediately replaced him with batting coach Harry Walker.

Hatton is the second National League manager to be fired in the past four days. The Philadelphia Phillies let Gene Mauch go last Saturday and named Bob Skinner to replace him.

Hatton was in his third season as the Astro manager. In his first season, 1966, the Astros were the surprise of the league for the first half of the year but injuries crippled them and they dropped to eighth place.

Shopping Center

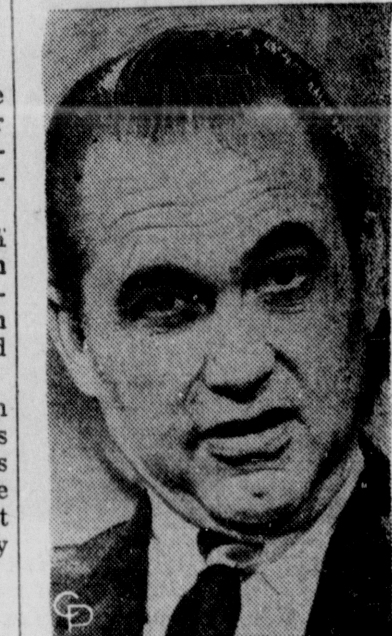

Set in Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Officials of Tiedtke's Department Store in Toledo announced plans Tuesday for a multi-million dollar shopping center to be opened in the northwest part of the city next spring.

Work on the enclosed mall-type center is to start next month, if a Toledo area building trades strike is settled by then. Tiedtke board chairman, Marvin Kobacker, declined to give an exact cost figure.

Resurrection City was intended to be a kind of "model shantytown," a city of tolerance and love that would serve as home for the 3,000 "basic" Washington officialdom.

But the wettest spring in decades has brought almost daily downpours, driving more than two-thirds of the 3,000 who were once in the nation's capital to seek shelter with friendly families, or else return home.

"GUN LAWS . . . GOOD"—In Washington, former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, running for president as an independent, says stronger gun legislation is not needed because "gun laws now are good if enforced. I am against the movement to take guns out of the hands of law abiding citizens. Then no one would have guns except criminals."
